SESSION ENDS

Stage Set For Election In September

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

The fourth session of the 25th British Columbia Legislature ended Friday afternoon with the stage set for a provincial election—probably in September.

Vital issues before the legislators were either power or the expansion of government benefits for the people—depending on where one sat in the House.

The Opposition contention that the government is supporting private power development in the Peace River, to the detriment of consumers, and turning over the wealth of the north to Wenner-Gren interests, was loudly aired during the 37-day session.

Government members on the other hand, made their loudest oratorical sorties on the subject of the 1960 budget—a record $331,120,119 outlay, containing benefits "for everyone."

Chief among these was the increase in the homeowner's grant from $28 to $50—and a 20 per cent boost in social assistance allowances.

These opposing summations of the business of the session are expected to be repeated, and enlarged upon, over and over, throughout the forthcoming election campaign.

Premier Bennett maintained throughout the session the election could come this year or next. He said it won't be this spring. But most observers felt there was little doubt it will come this year after listening to his budget speech.

The premier, still convalescing from a kidney operation, will be busy until late summer, including a May-June trade-boosting trip to Britain.

'Blowing Works' on Vote Gamble?

The premier missed all the early part of the session and then made infrequent appearances for the remainder.

The budget dipped into surplus revenues for $25,000,000 to enable the premier to boost spending for public service by $56,000,000.

Some observers feel his action burns his bridges. Next year the surpluses won't likely exist and to maintain the same level of spending, new revenues will have to be found. He is "blowing the works" on an election gamble.

There were other indications. There was little or no controversial legislation submitted. The speeches of cabinet ministers were toned down from last year. If it hadn't been for the opposition determination to bring all the attention possible to the power issue, the session would have been lifeless. The loss controversy, the less defensive a government must be on the hustings.

On the other hand, with the boost in homeowners' grants and welfare, school and public works spending fresh in the public mind—an election couldn't be held at a better time for the government.

It will come soon after the inauguration of the new government ferry service this

Planes Gun Rebel Force In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—An army regiment revolted today and seized and held the northern section of La Paz against heavy attack by government airplanes and troops using mortars.

First government reports said three were known dead and seven wounded.

President Hernan Siles Zuazo called an urgent cabinet meeting. There were unofficial indications a state of siege would be declared.

Fighting continued despite government claims the situation was under control.

The government said the "Avelino Aliaga" regiment stationed in the capital of this landlocked South American nation had been ordered into action against the government by Col. Hermogenes Rios Ledezma while "in a state of intoxication."

REPLACED

The government said that Rios, director of police, had been replaced. Siles ordered the peasant militia of the Nationalist Revolutionary movement into action against the rebels, and received pledges of support from other forces.

The revolt broke out at 1 a.m., and it was thought the heavy firing was in salute to Siles whose birthday is today.

Business came to a complete halt and the streets were empty except for racing trucks loaded of soldiers and armed civilians.

Four government warplanes machine-gunned the rebel garrison but it continued to fight back. However, the rebels were unable to advance toward the centre of the city where Siles was directing government forces from the presidential palace.

Ceylon PM Loses Vote

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP)—Prime Minister Wijayananda Dahanayake today was defeated in Ceylon's first general election since the assassination of Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike last Sept. 25.

Dahanayake became prime minister after the assassination but resigned in December and called the new elections.

He was defeated by 483 votes in a five-cornered contest in his constituency of Galle.

Maritimes Hit Again

HALIFAX (CP)—A snowstorm that swept in from the Atlantic brought up to 10 inches of snow to parts of Nova Scotia today before picking up speed on a course expected to take it into Newfoundland tonight.

... A YOUNG KID'S FANCY

Spring will arrive in Victoria Sunday at 6.43 a.m., and will be greeted by cloudy but mild weather, according to weatherman William Mackie. Rain is in offing. A few swallows have been spotted by sharp-eyed residents, but easy to see are other harbingers of spring—three tiny, inscrutable kids at Glanford Avenue farm of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smart. (Halkett Photo.)

City Men Face Drug Charge After Arrest in Nanaimo

'WE WOULD START WAR' TO UNITE TWO KOREAS

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Vice-president-elect Lee Ki-ping said today that South Koreans are determined to unite Korea again, even if they have to use force against the Communist North.

"We would rather die by marching north than live this way," the 63-year-old Lee told reporters.

"Unification by force is not an ideal goal at all, but the present divided situation is so miserable that to escape from our misery we think of unification by force."

AT VANCOUVER

Crash Kills Youth In Police Car Chase

VANCOUVER (CP)—A police chase ended in death today for a 17-year-old youth when the borrowed car he was driving sideswiped a police vehicle, then plunged through a guard rail at Prospect Point in west-end Stanley Park.

The victim was identified as Alfred Boyle of Vancouver. He was thrown about 60 feet from the car, which came to rest against a group of stumps. The stumps prevented it from dropping another 100 feet to the water.

Police said a constable in a cruising patrol car was questioning the driver when he suddenly sped away. The constable gave chase.

Near Prospect Point, the youth sideswiped the police car and his own car failed to negotiate a turn, skidding through the guard rail.

"Time we began to think of disarmament as an advance rather than a retreat."

Now that it's over, it seems I've bin more of a shoo-shin' than a session.

That March 20 Springtime—just a formality with us, of course.

May Be Turning Point in Talks

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union offered today to accept a partial nuclear weapons test ban on the condition that all world powers agree not to carry out any tests for the time being.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin made the proposal at a special meeting of the three-power nuclear test ban talks.

He told the United States and Britain that Russia is ready to accept the Western proposal for a ban which would not cover small underground tests regarded as impossible to police.

The Soviet delegate hinged his offer, however, on Western acceptance of a three-power moratorium on tests not explicitly banned by the treaty. But there would be no international control to ensure compliance with the moratorium.

TURNING POINT?

This could represent a major turning point in the deadlocked talks, although there was no assurance that the U.S. and Britain would accept such a proposal.

However, U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth told Tsarapkin: "We have just heard a very important statement. There can be no doubt of this."

WAY OUT OF DEADLOCK

British officials have privately hinted that a partial treaty, with a simultaneous moratorium might be a way out of deadlock but the suggestion hitherto did not win favor with the U.S. or the Soviet Union.

Tsarapkin's offer thus might place the British delegation in an embarrassing position in the talks if the moratorium proves unacceptable to the U.S. The British government has carefully sought to avoid any real or apparent difference with the U.S. ever since the negotiations started Oct. 31, 1958.

The Soviet move falls in line with the Communist bloc's position at the week-old 10-power disarmament conference also being held in Geneva. The Soviet bloc has called repeatedly for a nuclear test ban agreement as a starting point for a wider disarmament treaty.

Today Radio Moscow hailed what it called the "sufficiently good progress" of the nuclear ban talks.

The broadcast said there still were differences between East and West but added: "Once since the war have the U.S.S.R. and the Western powers gone so far ahead on the road to agreement as at these talks."

FRENCH REPORT

Plot to Kill Ike 'Phony' Says U.S.

GETTYSBURG (UPI)—The White House today branded as "completely phony" a Communist report from Paris that an American intelligence report had warned of a plot by French extremists to assassinate President Eisenhower.

The Communist report, carried in the organ L'Humanite, was called untrue by presidential secretary James C. Hagerty. He declared that the report was "obviously deliberate Communist propaganda" and "completely phony."

U.S. PLEDGES CAREFUL STUDY OF RED OFFER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eisenhower administration officials promised a quick, careful study today of Russia's latest offer in negotiations over a nuclear weapons test ban. They said the offer to accept a partial nuclear test ban seemed to be quite a concession from the previous position.

President Eisenhower apparently will have to decide in the next week or two whether to accept or reject the Soviet terms or, as seems likely, come up with some U.S. counterproposal.

State department authorities felt the Soviet move offered new evidence that Soviet Premier Khrushchev actually wants the test ban negotiations at Geneva to succeed.

LONDON (Reuters)—British officials today said Russia's conditional agreement on a treaty for a partial test ban appears to be "a very important development."

WIRE BRIEFS

IN THE HOUSE

WITH
Norman Cribbens

Tired legislators are returning to their homes in distant parts of the province today following the close of a gruelling seven-week session that included 15 night sittings and one late-morning sitting on top of an early-morning sitting.

Their reward for this endurance is a cheque for $5,000 covering sessional indemnities and expenses. But, of course, the legislator's work on behalf of his constituents goes on all the year 'round.

It was a wearing session and because of it there was little sign of festivity around the corridors after the House prorogued Friday evening. Members looked pale and worn and anxious to get away.

Many old friends and adversaries shook hands with the whimsical thought that they might not meet here again. An election is likely in September (my choice at least) and this could mean some familiar faces will be missing at the 1961 session.

However, Premier Bennett doesn't seem to think there will be much change. Beaming on Opposition members, he made the remark:

"When we all return here for the next session . . . Perhaps he was just being mischievous with the Opposition which, of course, hopes to gain much greater strength at the next election. And CCF leader Robert Strachan has hinted more than once that he may be sitting in the premier's chair next January.

If he is, I wonder who would be in his cabinet? One disrespectful member suggested that Gordon Dowling, the loquacious CCF member for Burnaby, would be created Minister of Natural Gas.

Fortunately Mr. Dowling's lengthy orations on almost every conceivable subject are relieved by a droll sense of humor. He recalled that Premier Bennett had said: "Raise your eyes—look up!"

"I looked up," Mr. Dowling said, "and was rather shocked by what I saw holding up the roof. The roof of this chamber is encircled by a score of nude figures."

In spite of their weariness, leading members on both sides kept up a heated debate on motions until close on 5 p.m., when Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross arrived to prorogue the House.

Mr. Strachan launched a final attack on the government's power policies and drew an angry reprisal from Premier Bennett.

"Never did any government protect the interests of its people so well," declared the premier, insisting there was "no give-away" to Wenner-Gren or any private interests for development of the north.

"It is smear, smear, smear," cried the premier. "They smear everyone and everything. That is all they have to sell."

Tony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie) then referred to the premier as "unscrupulous." He was promptly booed by the government benches and made to withdraw the word by Mr. Speaker Hugh Shantz.

At last the dust settled and the exhausted members flopped back in their chairs to await the stately prorogation ceremonies. Then they stood stiffly in their places as the golden bar at the end of the chamber was removed and the lieutenant-governor entered to put the official seal on the fourth session of the 25th Legislature.

The governor gave royal assent to 80 bills in what probably will be the last sitting of the legislature during his term of office. He concludes his term later this year.

The governor was attired in a black business suit instead of the braided uniform and cocked-hat he wore at the opening ceremonies, but his aides of the three services were in full-dress uniform.

The staid, unhurried prorogation ceremonies were in quaint contrast to the preceding rush of business. (One routine bill received first, second and third reading in just on seven minutes.)

But when Mr. Ross and his entourage had left the chamber, the House broke up in collegiate style with members hurling copies of printed bills across the floor.

A few minutes later they were lining up in the office of the legislative clerk to collect their sessional indemnity cheques.

Jail-Jamming Protest Urged in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—The Pan-Africanist Congress issued a call Friday for a nation-wide campaign of non-violence against South Africa's pass laws for Negroes.

Starting Monday, Negro men who heed the call will go to the nearest police station and declare they are not carrying the pass which every Negro by law must have with him, and invite arrest.

Mangaliso Sobukwe, president of the congress—who admitted he is risking a charge of sedition and treason under South African law—told a press conference the purpose of the campaign is to crowd the jails and courts and bring industry to a standstill.

Sobukwe said a door-to-door campaign soliciting support for the campaign had received a favorable response from the union's 10,000,000 Negroes.

Thousands of Negroes are arrested annually for not having passes. They are liable to a fine of £10 or two months in prison.

U.S. Envoy Returns

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal will return to Havana Sunday in another effort to spur some improvement in U.S.-Cuban relations.

EX-PLUMBER CONVICTED OF HUGE EMBEZZLEMENT

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—John R. Hendrickson, who climbed from a poverty-stricken plumber to a millionaire business tycoon, was found guilty Friday night of embezzling nearly $4,000,000 from a bank in nearby Long Beach.

A jury of seven men and five women took only four hours to reach a verdict in one of the largest embezzlements on record in the U.S.

The 49-year-old manufacturer was convicted on all 26 counts of embezzling $3,740,000 from the East Long Beach branch of the U.S. Bank of San Diego.

Hendrickson conspired in the embezzlement with George Hewlett, 40, a cashier at the branch bank. Hewlett killed himself last May 2, leaving a suicide note implicating Hendrickson in the misappropriation of funds.

SESSION

The opposition managed to stretch the power debate over two days in February then revived it a week ago and again Friday.

They argued the deal with Wenner-Gren interests in the north can't help but produce power more expensively than if the development was done by the publicly-owned B.C. Hydro. Payment of private share dividends and corporate taxes must boost the cost 25 to 40 per cent.

They charged the government is hiding facts on the Columbia River negotiations, and voiced suspicion of intentional delay, because the Peace could hardly be economic if it had to compete with Columbia River power. It will be low-cost power due to anticipated returns of benefits which will accrue to U.S. power developments downstream.

Wengren, Columbia Policy Challenged

The CCF also made a loud case out of the government's reluctance regarding the proposed Wenner-Gren Railway between Prince George and the Yukon border. Scheduled to start within three months, the project company has yet to be formed. The government has not said whether a performance bond will be required nor has it guaranteed the railway will be finished once it begins.

The government answer was to repeat claims that there is no give-away to Wenner-Gren.

It said efforts to bring to Columbia talks to fruition are going ahead as quickly as possible and the only reason for secrecy is protocol—the federal and U.S. governments are involved.

Bid to Water Down Labor Act Beaten

Both CCF and Liberal members attempted to water down the terms of the Trade Unions Act—the bill 43 of 1959—but all attempts were defeated by the government. Grounds for keeping the status unchanged were that since the act was passed there has been less labor trouble and no need to enforce its powers. This was disputed at length.

Other highlights of the session included:

- A battle over charges of patronage in the granting of highways contracts.
- A hassle over election procedures, with an admission by Provincial Secretary W. D.

Black that he had written persons other than government officials, for suggested names of enumerators.

- A government promise that a Fair Accommodations Act would be brought in next year to ensure against discrimination against race or color in B.C.
- Legislation to provide group life insurance for civil servants and to increase pension benefits for those already retired.
- A committee study and subsequent ban against the use of trading stamps and similar promotional devices in B.C., subject to proclamation when any problem develops in this line.
- Announcement that the province will survey nursing home needs and launch its chronic care plan this year.
- Announcement the B.C. Power Commission will issue party bonds over the counter to the public this year.
- The re-establishment of a royal commission to study problems of road user charges and the interim report which resulted in lowering of over-load and overweight fees for commercial trucking interests.
- And finally, the clanger dropped by Bert Price (SC-Vancouver-Burrard) who told the House that social workers don't know anything about hard work.

By the time the end came, more than one member of the House had reason to recall the suggestion put forward by Stan Carnell (SC-South Peace River) that the House should sit twice each year—once in the spring for passage of the budget, and once in the fall for legislation.

KURUME, Japan (UPI)—Fire destroyed a locked mental ward at the Kurume National Hospital early today, killing at least 11 of its 82 patients. A 12th patient was missing.

DEMAND DEFIED BY DE GAULLE

PARIS (AP)—President de Gaulle touched off a parliamentary storm Friday by rejecting the demand of a majority of the National Assembly for a special session on France's farm crisis.

Angry deputies accused de Gaulle of violating the Fifth Republic's constitution. Leftists threatened, and the government, headed by Premier Michel Debre, in the regular session opening April 26.

$27 Down Payment On a Mink Coat Found by SPCA

There's a $27 down payment on a mink coat at the SPCA small animal shelter off Tye Road, awaiting a claimant.

The "down payment" is a live mink, worth about that amount in the fall.

He was picked up by SPCA inspectors in answer to a call from Lauchie Smith, 1069 Foul Bay Road, who found the animal trapped in his garage.

WEST BROMWICH ROUTS EVERTON

Kevan in 5-Goal Spree

LONDON (AP)—Inside-left Derek Kevan shot his way back into the English soccer headlines today with a five-goal scoring spree in West Bromwich Albion's 6-2 rout of Everton.

Kevan, once England's centre-forward but now out of the national team, roared through the Everton defence with all his old power. All his goals were brilliantly taken.

West Bromwich now is fifth in the First Division with 38 points—eight behind league-leading Tottenham Hotspur.

Tottenham had a half-back Dave Mackay to thank for a 1-1 tie against Fulham. Mackay seized a centre from half-back Danny Blanchflower and shot low along the ground for Spurs' leveller with only seven minutes left.

Wolverhampton Wanderers' hopes of an English League and Cup double nose-dived at Leicester. The Wolves went under 2-1 and now are three points behind the Spurs.

Tottenham has 46 points and Wolves 43. Both teams have only eight more games to play in the 42-match program.

Burnley, the team nominated as England's representative in the New York international tournament to be launched in May, still has a chance of stopping Tottenham.

Burnley defeated Arsenal 3-2 on goals by centre forward Cliff Pointer, winger John Connelly and half-back Brian Miller and now is four points behind Tottenham. Burnley has played two fewer matches than the leaders.

Manchester City, with Britain's costliest player Denis Law playing for the first time, lost 4-3 at Leeds. Law, transferred from Huddersfield for £53,000, got one goal but one point over Cardiff City, a last-minute penalty by centre-Portsmouth, fourth from the top forward McColo nosed bottom of the division, won Leeds to victory.

4-1 at Cardiff in the day's biggest upset.

Sheffield Wednesday, which plays Blackburn in the Cup semi-finals next Saturday, scored twice in the second half for a 4-3 victory at Preston.

Blackburn lost 2-1 at West Ham. The other Cup semi-final will be between Wolverhampton and Aston Villa — and Villa today gave the Wolves a warning they are in for a hard fight.

Villa moved to the top of the Second Division with a 2-1 victory over Scunthorpe and now leads the standings by

'TOKEN OF ESTEEM' FOR BUST BORROWERS

It was a token of esteem to the students who helped "city council" to make a difficult decision. At Victoria University awards banquet Friday, a miniature bust of the Queen was presented by the student council to students who "borrowed" the king-sized Queen's statue from City Hall.

But the students involved didn't accept the gift directly—it was accepted on their behalf by Tony Robertson, Colin Ross and Virginia Leeming.

Defence Probe Critics 'Whining, Blubbing'

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Over strong Opposition objections, the Commons voted Friday to establish a special 15-member defence committee.

Opposition spokesmen described the committee as a "mockery" and "farce" because it will be empowered to examine only defence expenditures in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1959.

What the Liberals and CCF wanted was a committee to delve into all aspects of defence policy.

Defence Minister Pearkes said the Opposition was a "bunch of spoiled children... whining and blubbing" because the government had not granted them the committee they wanted.

The vote, forced by the government, was 131 to 33, the Progressive Conservatives overpowering 27 Liberals and six CCF members. One hundred MPs were absent.

Mr. Pearkes foresaw the possibility that the Opposition might boycott the committee. He said that if the Opposition didn't want to co-operate there was enough talent on the government side to produce recommendations for the defence department.

However, Liberal and CCF spokesmen said outside the Commons that the two Op-

University Grant Scheme Passed

Finance Minister Fleming says the government is hoping its new plan to make university grants available in all provinces will smooth the troubled waters of federal-provincial relations.

He said the government believes the plan will provide "a solution to an issue which has been a long-standing source of controversy, division and disunity in Canada."

He won support from both Liberal and CCF parties for the principle of getting grants into the hands of Quebec universities, which have up until now refused to accept them.

The new plan gives provinces an alternative to the present system whereby federal grants totalling $1.50 a head of provincial population are divided among a province's universities by the Canadian Universities Foundation.

Any province choosing the alternative—Quebec has done so—would pay an equivalent grant, financing it through an increase in the provincial corporation income tax. The federal corporation tax would be

PEACE GESTURE SAYS NEWSMAN

Canada Urged to Offer All Forces as UN Police

Canada's armed forces could do more for peace under the United Nations flag, newspaperman Charles B. Lynch told Friday's luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club of Victoria at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Lynch is chief of the Ottawa Bureau of the Southern News Service.

He advocated Canada take the lead in present disarmament discussions in Geneva by recommending an international police force be set up to control world disarmament.

"We should be the first to provide the nucleus of such a force, even going to the extent of offering full strength of all our services. Such a police force should be restricted to conventional weapons."

CANCEL BOMARC

"We should refuse to continue in large-scale military integration with the United States, cancel orders for Bomarc missiles and get out of the arms race."

"If we continue to become more and more a military appendage of the United States we will be weakened in our real role which allows Canada to wield an influence for peace. Canada, at present, stands in danger of becoming a 51st state—an insignificant trained seal in the big American circus."

INNER CONFLICT

External Affairs Minister Howard Green was hampered in achieving the goal of keeping Canada in her role of peace-maker by policies being implemented by the defence department, headed by Defence Minister George Pearkes, whom he described as not "having elbow room to make policies of his own." Mr. Lynch deplored lack of co-ordination in the department.

"People have lost confidence in our defence policies. Many are beginning to think in terms of neutralization. This is a dangerous situation."

Mr. Green, he said, is facing a year of decision, both for himself and Canada.

"He has said all the right things, describing Canada as the nation in the middle. Now he is feeling pressure from many quarters, including the United Nations, military alliance groups and the defence department in his efforts to keep Canada in her position of independent adviser. If Canada fails to maintain this role—we'll fail the whole world as well as ourselves. We must get back on the rails."

'HARMONICAT' LYNCH RENDERS DANNY BOY

Members of the Canadian Club of Victoria were treated to an unusual spectacle Friday—political commentator Charles Lynch of Ottawa rendering a plaintive harmonica solo of the ballad "Danny Boy."

Mr. Lynch, whose renown as a mouth-organist reached splendid peaks during his days as a war correspondent, had just concluded a serious address on NATO, NORAD, nuclear warheads, and Canada's role as a middle power in world affairs.

Club president J. H. Brown, in thanking the speaker, said that he had heard of Mr. Lynch's prowess as a harmonica player and wondered if he had brought the mouth organ to the meeting.

"I'm never without it!" cried Mr. Lynch, reaching in his brief case.

He then stood and played "Danny Boy."

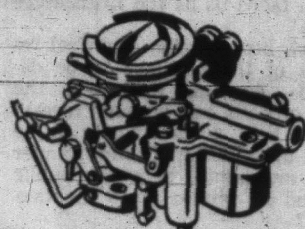

The audience of more than 100 gave Mr. Lynch a hearty round of applause.

The Rest Is Silence

SO ENDS PERHAPS THE MOST remarkable session in the records of the British Columbia Legislature. It was remarkable not for what it did, but what it failed to do; not for what it said but what it refused to say; not for its enlightenment of the public but for its complete obfuscation.

Exactly as planned from the beginning, the Government has sent the Legislature home without telling it anything of importance.

* Two great pieces of public business, two decisions that must affect all future generations of British Columbia, faced us as the Legislature opened.

First, how are the electrical resources of the province to be developed—on the Columbia, the Peace, or both, and on what terms? Second, how is the north to be opened up by a new railway, under whose ownership, at what public cost and at what risk to the taxpayers?

By a masterpiece of delay and double-talk the Government managed to escape from the session, according to plan, without saying a significant word about these paramount issues.

Only two conclusions can be drawn from this skilful strategy of silence. Either the Government intends to seek re-election without telling the people what they are voting for; or else the Government itself doesn't know its own policy on electrical power and on the mysterious northern railway.

So far as power is concerned, we think the Government knows its own policy but is afraid to reveal it. The policy is to pay lip service to the development of cheap electricity on the Columbia while doing nothing to help the federal Government in achieving an agreement with the United States. And this policy of public support, with private inaction or opposition, is designed to make way for the relatively high-cost power of the Peace, as promoted by Mr. Wenner-Gren and his confederates.

Opportunity on the Indus

WITHOUT THE FANFARE which has accompanied preparations to build the Aswan dam in Egypt, a project of even greater magnitude is planned for India and Pakistan. An overall plan for damming the Indus River and its five tributaries is now coming nearer reality. The results could revolutionize the irrigation and hydro-power needs of 50 million people.

The quarrels and war threats that have marked relations between India and Pakistan since the partition in 1947 have seriously delayed agreement on the best method of harnessing the Indus watershed. The border between the two countries cut across existing canal systems, giving India an up-stream advantage over her neighbor.

But the new arrangement, achieved through painstaking mediation by the United Nations World Bank, promises an enlightened development of the whole system, dividing the tributaries between India and Pakistan and promising an eventual investment of $1 billion.

This sum will be advanced by the United States, the World Bank, Canada, Britain, Australia, New Zealand and West Germany when the formal treaty is signed within the next few weeks.

Besides providing a needed asset of high value to the two Commonwealth members the Indus program involves further great benefits.

To carry out the huge construction job will require a large army of trained workers—truck drivers, construction experts, draughtsmen, bridge builders, mechanics and scores of other trades. These must largely be supplied by the native population, and there will be an excellent opportunity to train large numbers of Indians and Pakistanis in modern techniques.

Their new skills may then be utilized in the many other projects which face the two countries in their steps towards a more prosperous life.

Such an educational program presents a special opportunity to Canada, which already has undertaken the training of many students here and in foreign countries under the Colombo Plan. The Indus project could become in effect a $1 billion school for technical education, and a lasting investment in both concrete and intangible benefits.

Significant, Yet Usable

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT's plan to build a national war memorial on Nepean Point in Ottawa has brought a number of alternative suggestions from the Ottawa Journal. The site mentioned is an admirable one, giving a commanding view over the Ottawa River yet providing a quiet spot off the main stream of the city.

The Journal, however, questions the form of the memorial. (The existing First Great War memorial will not be affected.) A monument and a cenotaph chamber, as proposed by the Government, would honor the Canadian dead of all wars, from the Nile Expedition to the Korean conflict. But, asks The Journal, would this be the most practicable and significant recognition for so worthy a cause? Would it not be better to create a memorial in the form of a park, a national theatre, a convention hall or some other useful construction?

The question is a pertinent one and worth the Government's consideration. Victoria answered a similar need with a memorial arena, and a suitable building might well serve the same purpose in the national capital.

Rumpelstiltskin

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD MARGOT Plais of the Cariboo had a problem. She possessed $4.80 earned by baby-sitting and she needed a sewing machine to turn out garments for her family of eight.

Her earnings, she understood, would not buy the machine. So with honest hope and determination she wrote to noted columnist Barry Mather in Vancouver, asking him if he would scout around the second-hand stores to see if he could pick up a used machine.

The columnist told Margot's story in print. Forty-two sewing machines were offered to him. He picked one and it was sent to the young lady in the Cariboo.

This is a heart-warming story that should appeal to everyone. It also places a distinguished columnist in a new and charming role—a sort of out-size Rumpelstiltskin. He took the straw of a country girl's simple wish and somehow spun it into gold.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

ON the higher slopes of Wells mountain or Terrace Hill in the Luxton area you can find the hairy manzanita (Arctostaphylos tomentosa) in bloom with its urn-shaped flowers. This shrub is often mistaken for arbutus.

At this time of the year you will see thousands of bees around these shrubs, collecting pollen and honey. The blackish-red berry is edible and was used extensively by the Indians.

Look among the moss-covered slopes and you will find the early saxifrage (Saxifraga integrifolia) with its little white flower and thick leaves in many shapes.

Look across the valley and see how the alders have now burst their catkins and look like shaggy caterpillars. Note how the colors have changed in these trees to a reddish-brown, showing that the sap is pushing up into the twigs and giving new life to the leaf buds.

Take a look at the willows. See how the silky catkins stand out and the tips of the twigs are taking on a new color with the terminal buds casting off their scales.

Perhaps you will note how the Indian plum has gained a different look, with its leaves tapering and the whitish flowers commencing to shed their petals.

This shrub seems to be forever taking on a new look and has often been mistaken for some other growth.

The rock formation of these hills is very interesting. They are in a terrace form and are volcanic, with streaks of copper showing and here and there veins of quartz.

LOOSE ENDS

'Parliament's Doin' Fine, But Give Me TV an' Westerns'

KNOWING her deep interest in public affairs, I gave my neighbor, Mrs. Noggins, a subscription to the Hansard of the Canadian Parliament as a Christmas present and, on meeting her today, found that she had read it diligently.

Hutchison

"The speeches," she said, "are lovely, just lovely, and so refined, and sometimes I can understand them, too. When Mr. Churchill talks about the prosperity that's about to engulf us I feel so good I could rush out and buy a spring dress and a permanent wave but next day when I read the CCF gentlemen's flesh creeps and I decide to save my money for the great depression immediately before us."

"Then, on the next page, I'm cheered right up again to find there's going to be 'aidouts for everybody, we're all going to subsidize each other and get rich takin' in the neighbors' washin'. All the nation needs is more washin' machines to cure the unemployment."

"But wot I like best is the speeches of Mr. Pearkes. Tis no matter, says 'e, that the Bomarc's 'ave all blowed up because they couldn't 'it the Russian rockets anyways. We might as well waste our money on Bomarc's as anythink else, in fact better, because the Bomarc's waste it quicker in one big flash. They're efficient and absolutely reliable that way."

"So Parliament needn't worry when it votes me money, says Pearkes. They can be sure Bomarc and me will know 'ow to spend it. And do you think I'd insult Parliament by savin' it? No, sir, I've too much regard for the people's elected representatives to betray 'em by a single dollar."

"LIKE I told you before, says Pearkes, we can beat the stuffin' out of the Russians and I do 'ope the Americans 'ave somethink to do it with, on account of all we've got in Ottawa is a big fat majority and that's nice, too, but 'ardly the ideal weapon fer the Third World War."

"If necessary, says Pearkes, we can always use those launchin' sites up north and the fine buildin's fer the next Conservative convention as we'll probably need a safe bomb shelter. Anyways, long after our civilization 'as disappeared in atomic rubble some man from Mars will see those mighty slabs of concrete and 'e'll know what the Diefenbaker Government stood for in the great age and meanwhile the taxpayers will stand fer anythink, bless 'em. "We may not be able to get the Bomarc off the ground, says Pearkes, but we sure 'ave got the budget in the stratosphere and the taxpayers in orbit somethink grand. The defence plan is goin' too well to need any investigation by Parliament and we respect the public too much to trust it with its own business. Leave everything to Bomarc and me and we'll explode together at the strategic moment."

"JEST the same, like Diefenbaker says, 'tis outrageous fer the Liberals to be preachin' blue ruin same as 'e did when 'e was in opposition. They've stolen Diefenbaker's act and broke the copyright."

"Besides, things is different today when 'e's pumpin' up the economy after all those dismal years of misery in the Liberal boom. And, man, 'ow 'e's pumpin', all 'ands to the pumps, and the engines floatin' from the bridge and the spirit moves 'em, and the lifeboats launched in case of accident and FLEMING ready to take off in 'is balanced budget and wonderin' if it'll float."

"Everybody is pumpin' like crazy but a passenger like me gets a little confused now and then when the purser comes around to collect an extra fare and no one knows our destination on account of the compass got lost in the hurricane of '57 and we're steerin' by Vision."

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

"Oh yes, says Paul Martin through the port hole, balance the budget like we always told you to, balance 'er fer 'eaven's sake, but not, of course, at the risk of cuttin' any expenditures. Balance 'er, says Chevrier, same as we did, balance 'er or we're sunk, but a balance will ruin the country, so don't say we didn't warn you."

"ALL this time the stock market is goin' down like a Bomarc but who cares, says Diefenbaker. Wot do those fellas in Wall Street know about the business prospects? Why, they're so ignorant they probably never even read my speeches about the glorious future. What does any private investor know about 'is own money? Leave us spend it, as knows 'ow. And if those experts in the trade department are predictin' a bust next year pay no attention. They only read the figgers instead of Churchill's forecast as they wrote themselves."

"So we'll be all right, says Diefenbaker, so long as the niggardly Americans lend us enough money to pay our grocery bills in return for a nominal fee and the nation's resources."

"Parliament is doin' fine," said Mrs. Noggins, "but I've quit readin' 'ansard and gone back to the television and the Western's. Those cowboys and Indians every night are easier on my blood pressure."

FROM OTTAWA

'Wonderful Shape'—But the Dream Is Giving Way to Reality

STORM warnings are fluttering all over Canada these days. When, and if, this storm breaks, the chill winds of recession will blow into every corner of our land. Listen to this warning, from James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada: "We must in the end learn, as a nation, to live within our means and exhibit the strength and will to do so."

It would, in my view, be the path of realism to move firmly in that direction on a broad front without delay."

Canada's top moneyman had more to say on the subject: "For the purpose of maintaining full employment, economic growth and a rising standard of living, we do not need to stimulate a temporarily high but unsustainable rate of consumer spending by means of more and more consumer credit, or of capital expenditures on a scale greater than our own capacity and willingness to save out of annual production for that purpose."

"We would benefit more from greater diversification of our production, which could provide a higher average level of employment, and one less exposed to the hazard of sudden changes."

Every consumer, every Canadian businessman, no matter what the size of his operation, should take heed of Mr. Coyne's words. This subject, although considered by the majority of citizens to be the problem of some remote authority in Ottawa, is necessarily the concern of everyone.

Another warning was hoisted at Montreal last week by Mitchell Sharp, a Brazilian Traction vice-president who was former deputy minister of trade and commerce.

Here's what Mr. Sharp had to say: "The longer we go on as we are going, the more formidable does the ultimate problem of adjustment become."

"We should be able to achieve a desirable rate of development, high enough to maintain a satisfactory level of employment, without calling upon outsiders for massive and continuous help."

In Europe, the Inner Six and the Outer Seven trade groups are slashing or preparing to slash tariffs within their membership. So far, Canada has not suffered too much in the way of lost trade. But, in the very near future, the nations of the Inner Six—Germany, Italy, France, Luxembourg, Belgium and the Netherlands, will start raising some of their lower tariffs in order to arrive at an average common tariff. They want to facilitate trade with each other, at the expense of cutting Canada and other countries out.

We are merely chipping away at the outer shell of these trade blocs, trying to halt an avalanche with a scoop shovel. We "consult" with them in an effort to stop them from becoming too restrictive."

According to Mr. Coyne, it does not matter if these trading communities do open their doors to other nations. As he put it: "Even on the assumption of favorable developments in the trading policies of European and other countries, merely passive reliance on presumed natural advantages cannot be expected to improve or even to maintain our position in world trade."

The honeymoon is over. Canadians have been living in a dream for some time now. "We have the natural resources, the power, the brainpower; the world has to come to our door," has been the common cry. The dream is giving way to reality.

Perhaps the strangest aspect of all of this is the attitude of the Conservative Government. Many Canadians saw Public Works Minister David Walker on television this week. "We are in wonderful shape. Everything is just going great," said Mr. Walker.

BACK TO FIRST PRINCIPLES

The Important Contribution of Our 20th Century Giants

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, in my middle teens, I was just beginning to discover that the first two decades of the twentieth century had seen some radical departures from the accepted norm in all the arts.

It is not easy to recapture, at this distance, the excitement that came with every fresh discovery that these artistic explorers were not, as I was assured by my elders and betters, cranks or crazies or charlatans, but were men of restless curiosity, uncompromising integrity, and prolific invention. Even today, when Picasso has only to pick up a brush or a new model to find himself in the headlines of the world's press, the name still retains something of the magic that it had in the old days when if his name appeared in the papers at all (misspelled for a certainty) it was only because some poor hack of a columnist was looking for gag material.

Emery

In sculpture it was the same story. Epstein and Gaudier in England, Brancusi and Laurens and Lipschitz in France, Lehmbruck and Barlach in Germany—all of these had already produced works of startling originality before the Great War arrived to scatter the artists and put them to the trade of war.

Strange Amalgam

Poets like Eliot and Pound, composers such as Stravinsky, Milhaud and Schoenberg, men of the theatre like Toller and Brecht and Pirandello—all of these were compounding that strange but stimulating amalgam that we call the art of our time; and in doing so they left a mark that is indelible on everyone else who composes or writes plays or poems.

And it is not only on their fellow artists that these outstanding men have exerted an influence: the general public, too, however ignorant they may be of the great art movements of the first quarter of this century, are daily exposed to modified cubism, watered-down surrealism, distillations of constructivism and futurism and all the other isms, in the shape of the skilful products of the practitioners of commercial art. The arts I have mentioned are all to some extent private. It is just possible, if you have lived a very sheltered life, to have existed for sixty years without actually coming into contact with the creations of any of the people I have mentioned; but there is one art which is so public that I cannot believe that anyone can have failed to notice that its products are importantly different from those produced in the last century: I refer, of course, to architecture.

If you compare, for instance, the building on Wharf Street that houses HMCS Malahat with the new fire-hall on Yates Street you will see the superficial differences well exemplified, but if you look more closely, as you should, you will see something else.

Since these are both good buildings of their kind they share a number of basic qualities that are common to all good buildings of any time and any place.

Giants' Contribution

It is in the attempt to isolate and define what these qualities are that we stumble on the really important contribution of our twentieth century giants. We owe much to Gropius and Wright and Le Corbusier and van der Rohe for taking the trouble to go back to first principles in building, just as our debt to the great contemporary artists in other fields is owed on account of their refusal to take nineteenth century modes of vision and expression as the norm for the twentieth century.

The main reason for the gulf between artist and public at the present time is that the honest artist is constantly asking himself certain questions: What am I trying to do? What am I trying to do it with? Have I done it?

Two Questions

The self-deceiving artists also ask themselves questions: How can I make that into a picture (or what not)? Is it lifelike? Will it sell? And all the time the public, looking at contemporary works, is moved to ask only two questions: How much? Are you crazy?

The contemporary painter, sculptor, poet or dramatist has not really made any important headway in winning public acceptance for his work, although he has captured to some extent the academic citadels so that he stands a good chance of being embalmed, if not enjoyed.

The man whom I salute without reservation is the good architect of today who has done so much to "sell" contemporary notions of beauty and elegance to the industrialist and the business man. It used to be said that there was nothing so timid as a million dollars, but nobody looking at the B.C. Electric building in Vancouver would agree with that today.

It is work like this that educates the eye of the beholder to the point where, in good time, he may accept other work by other men in other media.

Mrs. Muddyshirt

SILENUS

GENTLE readers of the more raucous sort are doubtless knowledgeable about (if not actually members of) that rude sodality known as the Society for the Verification and Enjoyment of Fascinating Names of Actual Persons (commonly called SVEFNAP). No meetings of this group have, so far as is known, ever been held; but now and again a member will recognize another from the common habit of lurking in the darkest corners of bars and saloons, and the two will get together to swap Fice Mork for Zipher Spittle and generally have a hey old time, chuckling until closing time.

The Canadian branch of SVEFNAP is, of course, rather staid and conservative. It has rigid standards of authentication, rather like those observed by fighter pilots. Nobody would dream of trifling, or ever even imagine for a brief instant the possibilities of manufacture.

It has taken our American cousins to apply the natural exuberance of free enterprise and the infinite possibilities of electronics to the embellishment of a hitherto innocent and harmless diversion. Perhaps those blower boys in airports have never heard of SVEFNAP. It is time that they did.

"Mrs. Muddyshirt and Doctor Fishcrack! Please check at the commodation bellerphone, Gonsendil Airlines!"

"Mr. Glorpi! Please gum tooth cower, Buzzer Airlines!"

"Bnazer Airlines Flight sentifoo now loading at gaytoothtree. Laboard, please. Thengyou."

"Trnswnrlines Flight flntoseven, now ready for dpasture a Gate svenyvro, earth concourse. Laboard please. Thengyou!"

It may well be, of course, that Mrs. Muddyshirt and Doctor Fishcrack are actual persons. But then why have they never been heard of in the world outside the airport? Are they, and all the other high-sounding individuals whose names we hear when travelling by air, perhaps stateless persons, condemned by some cruel fate to roam the airways of the world? Where do they live, these flying Dutchmen, when on the ground? Do they even exist?

Sometimes I wonder. One of these days I hope to meet you, Mrs. Muddyshirt, at Gayfoohce in the ertth concourse.

METRO SYSTEM VETOED BY WINNIPEG MAYOR

JUBA ... more taxes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Stephen Juba, of Winnipeg said Friday night metropolitan government is just another expense to taxpayers and amalgamation is the answer to Winnipeg's growing problems.

A bill which would have left the question of metropolitan government to a vote of Winnipeg electors was defeated Friday in the Manitoba legislature. The city and 13 suburban municipalities would have been involved in the plebiscite.

Mayor Juba, here on a four-day visit to study Vancouver's slum-clearance plans, said that although amalgamation is the answer to his city's problems, it is not "politically acceptable."

SURPRISE AGREEMENT

Hansard Studied By Government

There was general surprise in the legislature Friday when the government accepted a motion to consider the establishment of verbatim reporting of legislative proceedings.

The motion, submitted by Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie), suggested introduction of a Hansard report of speeches in the legislature such as is used in the House of Commons in Ottawa.

Hitherto, the government has rejected the idea, but it has still only agreed to "consider" a Hansard.

The government also accepted CCF proposals that it should consider a basic automobile insurance plan for B.C. It accepted a proposal by Dan Campbell (SC-Comox) that the federal government accept "realistic" financial responsibility for maintaining the B.C. coast transport system.

PEACE AND TRADE

The House went on record in favor of urging the federal government to "intensify" its efforts to achieve world peace and to encourage trade with the Far East.

Mr. Gargrave also won approval of his motion that the government urge Ottawa to improve coastguard services in B.C. by providing proper vessels, aircraft, equipment and trained personnel, co-ordinated by a control centre.

A motion by CCF leader Robert Strachan that the B.C. government apply to the federal government for control of the B.C. Telephone Co. and its subsidiaries was defeated by 35 to 13.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS — It will be a pleasant, warm day today through most of the interior and over the south coast. The north coast region will not be quite so fortunate as an offshore flow of moist air will keep skies cloudy with a little rain falling from time to time. Sunday will see some deterioration in weather in southwestern sections as a slowly-moving disturbance in the Pacific moves northeastward toward the B.C. coast. An increase in cloud must be expected in most areas of the province, while rain will likely spread to most sections of the coast before the day is over.

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

Another Promise
SIDNEY REVIEW — Once again a responsible official of the federal government has promised that some development work at Patricia Bay airport will be carried out in the comparatively near future. This time Transport Minister Hees has been the one to cry "Wolf." He has assured the people of Canada that his government will start construction of a new administration building at the airport here within the next year. His pronouncement was received in North Saanich with mixed feelings.

The Review is convinced that the right and proper course for the sane development of Patricia Bay airport is the implementation of the firm promise of Hon. G. R. Pearkes, VC, minister of defence and member of parliament for this district. Our member promised long ago that runways would be extended without delay. The government should concern itself primarily with extension of the runways. Once a proper, modern airport has been created, then it should get on with construction of the administration building. Surely it is a waste of public funds to erect a pre-tentious building at a second-rate airport.

Reason, Please
COWICHAN LEADER — A big bouquet of cauliflower goes this week to a minority of the lay staff of King's Daughters' Hospital. For the third time in as many meetings they demonstrated last week why they should not be permitted to belong to the association, which owns the hospital, and to vote at its meetings.

A year ago they voted out the chairman of the board. He had ruffled their feathers but as far as the district knew, and still knows, he had given good service to the district as a whole, which is what the hospital board is supposed to do. The staff has its grievance committees and has no right to vent its spleen upon voluntary men and women servants of the entire district and bring about their defeat. This is possible under the old bylaws.

Last fall at a special general meeting the staff of the hospital again exerted its influence and rejected the same two by-law clauses. Last week the staff struck again. The by-laws were once again defeated and this time the head of another board member rolled in the aisle. The former chairman was also defeated in his bid for re-election. Vox populi — Bunkum!

It is time the residents of this district paid more attention to hospital affairs and realized what harm can be done if a disgruntled minority of the staff continues to act irresponsibly.

Bigness Pays
LADYSMITH CHRONICLE — Every time a tree farm licence application comes up for consideration, great concern is expressed about the fact that large areas of B.C.'s forest resources are being given into the hands of a few large industries. Without entering into the controversy on one side or the other, we would like to point out one of the benefits which big, integrated companies can provide in terms of the economic use of forest resources.

According to the annual report of Crown Zellerbach (Canada) Limited, which was released this week, 39 per cent of the pulp wood requirements of this company's two large pulp mills came from waste or salvage wood products. As the sale of pulp, newsprint and other paper products now represents one of B.C.'s largest and most dependable sources of wealth, this is extremely significant. It means that small logs which were formerly left on the forest floor and sawdust which was formerly burned simply to get rid of it are now bringing substantial sums of money into this province.

People Are Funny

... especially when it comes to home building. They shop only at reputable, well-established stores, because "if anything goes wrong, the store will make good." Then they enter into a contract with a builder who started in business yesterday, and may be out of business the day after he completes their home (or, in some cases, even sooner). Sometimes this works out all right, except for the inevitable fact that the home's resale value is low because it was built by an unknown contractor. Sometimes, and especially in tight money times like this, it results in tragedy — the unfinished home is tied up by a flock of legal actions against the contractor, and the hopeful owner is left holding the bag.

How to avoid this? Just shop for a home the way you shop for less important items. Pick a well-known, well-established builder who stands behind his work, and you won't go far wrong. If you don't want to go wrong at all, pick Vickery Construction. The largest home building specialists on the Island, Vickery gives a written warranty and one-year service policy on every home purchased.

Your investment in your home is too important to risk — ask us now about this guaranteed protection.

Oh, talking of guaranteed protection reminds us that March is Red Cross month. If you've been missed by the canvasser, you can always mail your donation to 1046 Fort St. Make it generous — the need is great!

S.A. 'Pressures' Newsmen

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters) — A South African member of parliament said Friday stories written by every foreign correspondent in South Africa are sent to the press commission as soon as they are filed with the post office.

John Cope, a Progressive, was speaking on a motion by Carl de Wet, a member of the ruling Nationalist party, to have all foreign correspondents registered before they are granted facilities to file copy.

Cope said that all foreign correspondents knew that what he alleged was being done.

He added that he did not want to say the press commission was taking this action purposely to intimidate reporters, but that was the effect it had.

South Africa, he said, was already defying many provisions of the convention, the first of which called for free entry and access to all civilized countries and said that correspondents should not be deported from any country.

Foreign correspondents, he said, should have the same access to news as is allowed to itself.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

Have you ever kept a record of books you have read, for a year or so? Such a list might provide you with unexpected insights into your character, for the inclusions and the omissions are equally eloquent.

During the war, Bernard Berenson, an American citizen, found himself an enemy alien in Italy, where he had made his home since 1900. The Italians gave an undertaking, which they faithfully honored, that he would not be disturbed if he behaved himself.

Thus the great savant and art expert became, a comfortable prisoner in I Tatti, his beautiful villa, with his wife and his secretary as companions. They amused themselves by reading, privately and aloud, and as I Tatti has a magnificent library of 40,000 volumes they knew no privation. A daily record of what Berenson read in 1942, with his comment, has been published as One Year's Reading for Fun (McClelland & Stewart—Knopf in U.S.A.).

At first encounter the list is awesome; I felt third-rate and intellectually shabby as I read it. Bernard Berenson had a sturdy ego, and felt no difficulty about comparing his influence on his admirers with that of Socrates; he could read the Psalms in Hebrew and Latin, as well as in English, and his contemporary reading embraced German, Italian, French and Spanish. What such a man reads "for fun" is daunting to those who, like myself, read English and venture very timidly into a little French. He read much Plato, in Greek, and he found Aristotle's Metaphysics amusing.

He comments on the pleasure it is for him to change from the density of German, and the hot ardors of Italian, to the limpidity of French. One can but envy him, and be silent.

Poetry, Fiction Dismissed

But as the reader works through the book, something of the pattern and quality of Berenson's mind begins to appear, and it is less inclusive than we at first supposed. He appears to have found full satisfaction for the purely aesthetic and imaginative side of his nature in painting, for he reads no drama, no poetry and little fiction.

Tennyson he dismisses as "brainless jingle," and he speaks of Browning's "quasi-Arab ejaculations"; T. S. Eliot is "that solemn humbug." There is nothing exuberant about B. B.'s taste, and it is a flash of insight to learn that he was never able to finish a Dickens novel until he read "Our Mutual Friend" in 1942. What he likes best is Plato, history and memoirs. This is admirable, but some hint of light-heartedness and imaginative sympathy might have made it truly great.

Austerity, sometimes approaching severity, characterizes Berenson's literary taste. He was a Lithuanian Jew, educated at Harvard, thoroughly steeped in the New England spirit, and married to Logan Pearsall Smith's sister; the combination of Hebraism, transcendentalism and Quakerism is formidable. His intellect seems rarely to have soared, and never to have weaved.

He admits that he would rather read about great writers than read what they wrote; thus he has ceased to read Shakespeare or Voltaire, but delights in critical comment on their works.

This is not to say that he has ceased to respond to literature; some of his judgments are as brilliant as they are acute.

Who else has said that Richardson's "Clarissa" is fully as good as the much-praised "Iliad" and "Odyssey"? By Choderlos de Laclos? It needs certainty of judgment to set the doddily unfashionable against the ultra-fashionable. Hemingway and Faulkner he brushes aside as already outmoded, but he has warm praise for Steinbeck.

All that part of modern thought which concerns psychology seems to have been rejected by Berenson. It is significant that in his discussion of those who have written illuminatingly of Leonardo da Vinci, the name of Freud is not mentioned. It would be ridiculous, however, to suppose that Berenson was unaware of Freud's study of the 19th century poet James Russell Lowell near Harvard.

In this record of a year's reading Berenson opens his mind to us, letting us see what that mind fed on, and how it worked.

I respond with admiration. A new genealogical book but my admiration is of slight published in Germany says value, because I am not fitted that religious reformer Martin to follow him in his cast range Luther, who was born 476 of languages and interests years ago, now has 1834 de Many readers, I fear, will feel

Canadian Physician Wins Award

NEW YORK, N.Y.—A thrilling novel by a Canadian physician has been selected as winner of a $100 Honorable Mention Award in the Pageant Press Best Book Contest for 1959. Titled The Three Gifts and set in Canada and upstate New York in the 17th and 18th centuries, the story by Wilfred Pocock of Ennsdale, Ontario, is based on the life of Louis Saint Jean.

This is the powerful and moving story of the French-Canadian pioneer who typified the spirit of all those who settled the North country against heavy odds. Through the telling of this fascinating tale the author has recaptured the significant events of an era in North America's colorful past.

Dr. Pocock has been serving the needs of his countrymen at home and abroad since 1918. A native of Rock Island, Quebec, he entered medical school in 1914, later interned at the Samaritan Hospital, Troy, New York. He also served with the Canadian medical corps during World War I.

At the same time Pageant Press has announced a new Best Book Contest for 1960, with $1,600 in cash awards. First prize will be $500; second prize, $250; third prize, $150. There will also be seven Honorable Mention Awards of $100 each.

Liberal-Minded Tory Served Canada Well

Reviewed by R. H. Roy.
PUBLIC SERVANT: The Memoirs of Sir Joseph Pope, by Maurice Pope. Oxford University Press, 1960. 312 pages. $4.50.

In 1926, shortly after retiring from the federal civil service, Sir Joseph Pope died. He had just completed 43 years of continuous public service, a period which started when the colonial era in Canada had recently closed, and which ended when Canada was about to enter the Commonwealth era.

During these years of constant flux and change, Joseph Pope held a series of appointments in Ottawa which make his memoirs of unusual importance.

For nine years he was the private secretary of Sir John A. McDonald. He was also an intimate friend of Sir Wilfred Laurier, an unofficial counselor to nine Governors-General, and ended his career as the Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs.

To be the private secretary to the leader of the Conservative Party, and yet be on the best terms with the leader of the Liberal Party, and to combine this by having the complete confidence of both, is indicative of the remarkable tact of Pope and the esteem in which he was held. But he was more than tactful.

He was a keen observer of the men and events of his time, and if there are no startling revelations in his memoirs, he nevertheless gives an excellent sketch of political events and personalities in Ottawa during the years from 1882 to 1925.

Pope himself was a hard-rock Tory of the imperial school. For example, when Canada began to send its own representatives to Washington, Sir Joseph thought this might weaken British-Canadian ties. Once, when watching a wreath-laying ceremony at the tomb of George Washington, he noted in his diary: "I could not help feeling that whatever Washington's claims to distinction may be, they rest upon the humiliation of England."

Despite his exceptional pragmatism, Sir Joseph was a man of the men and events of his time, and if there are no startling revelations in his memoirs, he nevertheless gives an excellent sketch of political events and personalities in Ottawa during the years from 1882 to 1925.

ART IN REVIEW

Symphonies, Art Galleries, Luxury? Evidence Refutes Councillor's Claim

Last week I spent three days east of the Rockies and a fourth day in Vancouver. They were hectic days, crowded with visits to art galleries and other cultural organizations; meetings with artists, museum staffs and others concerned with cultural development in western Canada.

Everywhere I went was an awareness of the ever growing public participation in the world of art, including the world of music.

And back in Victoria where I learned of the vast crowds visiting the Third Biennial Exhibition at the Art Gallery (closing tomorrow, March 20), I was more than a little surprised to learn of Councillor Passmore's declaration that the Victoria Symphony Orchestra and Art Gallery are luxuries.

This was a thought which had not occurred, apparently, to the people I had met during my trip; but certainly it was a thought which, as the Irish might say, set me thinking. Perhaps Councillor Passmore of Saanich is right, and the rest of Canada and the world are out of step.

Perhaps art is a luxury, though if one is to go by outward appearances, and the ever increasing use of gallery and symphony services to communities both large and small, then I would substitute the word luxury for something more realistic—utility, for example.

I would suggest that doubters should spend two weeks at the receiving end of an art gallery telephone to learn just how much of a service a gallery provides. And I have never yet met a gallery curator who has not found 24 hours a day too short a period to fulfill the unwritten law of every curator being a public servant.

spend, during the fiscal year, than the Tate Gallery.

Mr. Julian Snow, in opening the debate, suggested that some form of tax relief should be applied by local authorities to private individuals and industry to support local artistic effort.

And for those who felt that art was neither necessary for, nor of interest to, the general public (did somebody say something about "luxury?") it was pointed out that Sir Kenneth Clark's TV program "Is Art Necessary?" had a viewing figure estimated at just under 2 million, while another program, "Five Revolutionary Painters," the average viewing figure was 2,400,000.

Closing the debate, Sir Edward Boyle announced an increased government grant of £300,000 to the Arts Council, with special concern for increased aid to provincial museums.

No, sir, art is not a luxury in Victoria or anywhere else.

Scottish readers will, I know, be heartened to read that Mr. Alexander Maitland, Q.C. has just presented the National Gallery of Scotland with a gift comprising 21 French paintings valued at one and a half million dollars. The paintings form one of the finest collections of post-impressionist art in Britain and include works by van Gogh, Renoir, Gauguin, Cezanne, Sisley, Rouault, Picasso, Courbet, Modigliani, Degas and Bonnard.

The gift has been given to Scotland in memory of Mr. Maitland's wife, Mrs. Rosalind Maitland, who died last October.

This collection might serve as a lesson in the art of collecting, for Mr. and Mrs. Maitland garnered the pictures over a period of 46 years, with the intention that eventually the entire collection would be given to the National Gallery.

Then he took the $10 to the till and discovered there was nothing but large bills and one lone 50-cent piece.

"Oh, well," he thought to himself, "it's only a baboon, what would he know about money?" He gave the baboon the 50-cent piece.

"What's the big idea, Buster?" snarled the baboon. "I'm sorry," stuttered the bartender, "I'm a little confused. You see, it's the first time a baboon ever came into this bar."

Top-Level Students To Give Concert

Each year Victoria Musical Art Society concludes its season by providing in its March concert a showcase for the best and most talented students of the city.

Selections for program are made by audition, a strictly impartial method which also sets up a challenge for the young artists.

This year's concert takes place next Wednesday at Holyrood House. Auditioning panel was Mrs. Jay I. Durand and Dr. H. M. Barnett.

Piano, singing, vocal and speech arts and ensemble performance are represented, from two or three primary examples to advanced work.

SONATA TEAM
More advanced pianists are Cheryl Borris, Patricia Evans, Susan Mason, Margaret McEwing, Sydney Bulman-Fleming.

Violinists are Barbara Anne Court and Vivienne Abbott, the latter playing a sonata with her brother, Norman at the piano.

Among the singers, two young baritones—William Hosie and Robin Estlin—and a tenor—Rino Elverhoy—will be heard. Sopranos are Barbara Oldhall and Darlene Frewing; contralto, Pamela Pavey.

Speech art is represented by Mardi Campbell. French horn solo and a trio will be performed by Bruce Dunn with Kenneth Muir and David Bowring.

From the middle grades come pianists Gordon, Dash, David Foster, Joan McCandlish and Beverley Brown.

Art of ensemble performance is to be demonstrated by a Bach trio consisting of Carole James, soprano, Karen Internationally-known mezzo-soprano Nan Merriman in the title role, and Richard Cassilly, leading tenor of New York City Opera, as Don Jose, will head a company of B.C. musicians, chorus and supporting cast. There will be repeat performances April 5, 7 and 9.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY St.D. JOHNSON

As surely as spring brings daffodils, it also brings festivals. From early March on through to May they are everywhere across the country, thick as blossoms on a cherry tree.

Some are called frankly what they are—"competitive" festivals; others, with the delusional idea of getting round a thorny problem, are described with stress as "non-competitive."

Well, the flesh may be too soft and weak to deal with the fact but the spirit (competitive) will always be there nevertheless.

Competition in itself is generally recognized as a healthy and natural element in living—even four-footed animals will strive to outdo one another in athletic prowess—for a prize.

ACTS AS GOOD
How many elegant, attractive, well-groomed women would you men ever get to see if it weren't for competition?

How many sharp luxury-buggies would you gals get to drive if hubby wasn't in continual competition for the title of "most substantial man of the year?"

Without competition progress slows and standards sag. That's why I've always failed to see why competition is considered harmful to children. When it comes to festivals and other trials, the word must not be breathed over them. A better example of over-simplification would be hard to find than refusing to name an element that will always be present, named or unnamed.

It reminds me of places in India where a tiger is referred to by anything but its right name—as though that would avoid the fact of the tiger's existence.

CAN BE FUN
If only, instead of this unrealistic approach, authorities—parental and other—would inculcate in the young the idea that competition festivals are primarily for learning by doing and by listening and watching others doing similar things; that it can be fun; that winning is the least important part—because only one person can win, but it takes a lot of good people to make a good festival.

And if only all talented young people could be given a small gift of humility to leaven ambition and make them intelligently receptive to criticism.

Resentment of criticism is one of the worst weaknesses of self-indulgent parents and over-indulged youth in our soft civilization.

Perhaps over a period of years of this sort of training, we would eventually arrive at the ideal adult approach to drama and music competition festivals.

If one is to gain something more than a trophy and lose, not one's initiative or one's temper, but only misconceptions, a festival must be approached by its competitors with certain factors firmly in mind.

It is necessary, for example, to realize that there are several imponderables involved.

ABSTRACT FACTORS
In the case of a drama festival like the one about to be launched Monday, there are concrete imponderables like an unfamiliar stage, lighting and auditorium. But more important are more abstract factors such as audience mood, which varies from night to night and has a direct effect on the players. And there is the adjudicator.

An adjudicator, at such a festival as this one is obviously going to be a knowledgeable man of the theatre with all the thorough-going familiarity with techniques, physical and psychological properties and aesthetic laws implied thereby.

But beyond this the algebraic "X" looms.
Theatre is an art and a craft, not an exact science. Therefore it is right and inevitable that personal taste in interpretation will vary from adjudicator to adjudicator and often between director and adjudicator.

This must be expected and accepted as an important factor which, all other elements being equal, can spell win or lose for any team.

Spring Concert At University Next Week

Three University of Victoria ensembles and a brilliant student soloist will present the annual spring concert in the university auditorium next Friday night at 8 p.m.

Two choirs, conducted by Prof. D. B. Gaddes, Arnold White and Larry Devlin, will sing folk songs, spirituals, art songs, show music and selections from Handel's "Messiah".

The College String Quartet, consisting of students Wendy Gerry and Mary Goward and Dr. Gordon Tracy and Mrs. Betty Tracy, will play Dvorak's "American" Quartet No. 6 in F Major.

Gifted young pianist, Judith Andrews, will be the evening's soloist, playing Schumann, Noveltien in A, and Liszt, Concert Etude.

Proceeds will go toward the Victoria University Music Award of $50 presented annually to a student showing outstanding interest and participation in the music clubs of the college, whose activities have served to increase music appreciation.

The award is to be presented during the evening.

Tickets are available at Western Music Co. or from members of the choir.

There will be an art exhibit in the art room through courtesy of Prof. W. Johns.

Jascha Heifetz, the Polish violinist, born in 1901, played his first public performance before he was five years old.

MEET THE ADJUDICATOR

James Dean of Toronto Mixes Maths, Drama

He specialized in mathematics and physics at the University of Western Ontario, where he took his BA with honors in 1926 and his MA, ditto, in 1927.

He is the author of a Grade 9 textbook, "Functional Mathematics," approved for use in all British Columbia secondary schools. He is also one of the Canadians most deeply imbued with a love and knowledge of the theatre and most indefatigable in its promotion.

Victoria drama fans will meet him next week at the B.C. Regional contest of the Dominion Drama Festival.

His name is James E. Dean and he will adjudicate the six plays to be presented on each of six nights, Monday through Saturday, at Oak Bay Junior High School, and decide, finally, which one will have the honor of representing British Columbia at the Dominion Drama finals in Vancouver, May 16-21.

Mr. Dean's interest in the theatre started when he was a 12-year-old schoolboy actor. Born in London, Ont., he became an early member of the London Drama League which later became the London Little Theatre; was business manager and an actor member of the University of Western Ontario Players' Club.

In 1929 he toured as leading man with the first Canadian group to tour professionally—the Canadian University Players.

Subsequently he managed the first and only Hart House Players, founded the "Play-craftsmen" of Toronto, a group with a long list of DDF awards to its credit, has adjudicated festivals all over Ontario and become well known as a set designer.

A return to the professional theatre in 1952-53 brought him into working contact with Edward Everett Horton, Arthur Treacher, Fay Bainter and Christopher Plummer.

In 1955 he was appointed first chairman of the Ontario Provincial Drama Council and in 1959 organized the Canadian Guild of Drama Adjudicators.

This will be the first occasion in the Dominion Drama Festival history that a Canadian has adjudicated the regional festivals. Replacing the single British adjudicator doing a three-month tour of Canada, policy this year has taken experienced theatre men and women from various Canadian cities and sent them to other cities to judge regionals.

Dorothy Davies, for instance, outstanding Vancouver director and actress and former Victorian (she was daughter of the late Dr. Clem Davies) will adjudicate in Ontario.

Difficulty of obtaining qualified, bilingual adjudicators from Britain, who could afford to take three or more months out from their regular commitments, dictated this change, together with the realization that in Canada today there are a number of proficient and highly trained theatre men and women available for the purpose.

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss)
BB (Worthwhile) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(A PLUS) "THE MOUSE THAT ROARED" (Royal): The ancient Duchy of Grand Fenwick, situated in some unexplained area of Europe, has fallen upon hard times. Its famed wine, sold in the main to the United States, has been hit hard by a cheap California imitation. The Duchy is bankrupt.

What to do? A hurried meeting of council decides the only way for the tiny country to fight its way back to solvency is to declare war on the U.S., invade its gold-paved wonders and—lose.

Why lose? Don't be silly. Everyone knows how kind and bountiful the Americans are to those they defeat. They will not only buy the Duchy's wine in greater quantities than ever but will supply oodles of money as well.

And thus begins one of the strangest wars in the history of motion pictures and, incidentally, a victory for English film-making.

Possibly the English do this sort of off-beat, satirical comedy the best of any nation. They have the necessary deftness and the ability to know when they have made their point and when it is the exact time to carry on to the next. Thanks for this happy state, therefore, must go to Roger MacDougall and Stanley Mann who adapted "The Mouse That Roared" from Leonard Wibberley's novel.

The actors, under director Jack Arnold, acquit themselves well, treating the insane sanity and the unlikely as though it were gospel. Peter Sellers is especially good as he undertakes three roles, the Duchy's Grand Duchess, its prime minister and, finally, the bumbling field marshal who takes his bow-and-arrow-equipped "army" to the U.S. and has the audacity to win rather than lose. If he is not an Alec Guinness at least he is a pretty fair facsimile.

Nor should one forget Jean Seberg as the captured American girl, or David Kossoff as her father and the inventor of the infernal Q-bomb.

Of special interest to Canadians is the appearance of Austin Willis who plays the role of the American emissary who must negotiate a peace with victorious Fenwick. He has caught the mood nicely and is always in command of each scene. Mr. Willis will be remembered by TV viewers in many a CBC play.

(OSCAR CLASS) "THE GOLDEN FISH" (Royal): After one witnesses "The Golden Fish" it is not difficult to understand why it won the Cannes Film Festival and is nominated for an Academy Award for best short subject.

In its simplicity and breathless suspense it is nothing less than a story-telling gem. Indeed, at the end one wonders how the evolutions of the cat, the bird and the gold fish were manufactured. It is like magic.

NEWS OF THE FESTIVALS

Speech Arts in Lead As Entry Total Soars

Record entry total for the Greater Victoria Music Festival now stands at 1,030, according to a report from the festival committee.

A breakdown of the entries reveals the largest single gain in speech arts with an approximate increase of 50 over 1959. Piano accordion has more than doubled in numbers and almost all other categories are up in some degree, except in one rather disappointing instance, Junior vocal, which it would seem, stood most to gain from the presence this year of a widely experienced voice expert from Britain—Roy Hickman—is down by nearly half.

Violin entries have stood still and adult choral has mustered one more than last year. Ten more groups are entered in the folk dance section. On the whole this promises to be one of the best festivals in the whole history of the movement in Victoria.

It looks as though it will be unwise to trust to getting tickets at the door for the Saturday night performance of the B.C. Regional festival next week.

And with tickets for any night, or season tickets for the whole six performances, available at Eaton's box office, the gamble is not necessary. Incidentally, season tickets are a ridiculously low price considering the polished standard of the six plays. Theatre-hungry Victorians should be gobbling them up.

Vancouver's international festival may be shorter this year but it is also fairly blazing with stars, some of the most brilliant to be found in the entertainment firmament.

From July 22, the opening night of the production of "Madame Butterfly" with Canadian star of the Metropolitan Opera, Teresa Stratas in the lead and stage direction by a leading Met director, Nathaniel Merrill, there will indeed be a varied and rich feast from which to choose one's favorite bon bouche.

There is to be Hal Holbrook in his famous "Mark Twain Tonight" impersonation; Jerome Robbins' Ballets: USA, the Inimitable Peking Opera, the Kingston Trio, Glenn Gould, Steinberg, Kerstin Meyer and possibly Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic.

And that's not all. But it should be enough to whet Vancouver Island appetites pretty thoroughly.

Designed for Rear View Plan Keynotes Simplicity

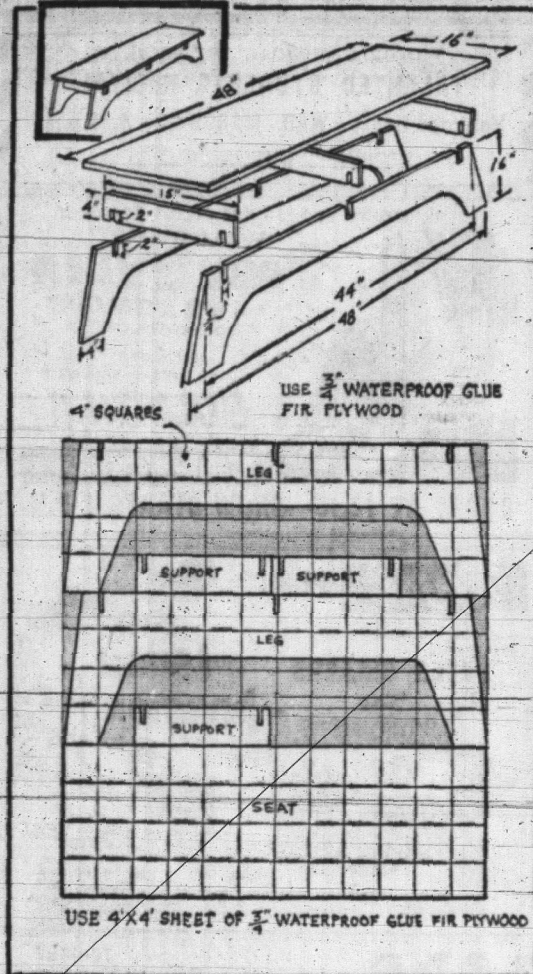

Simplicity is the keynote of this three-bedroom bungalow designed by architect Earl R. Dunlop, of Toronto. The plan takes advantage of a rear view with the combined living-dining room situated at the back of the house.

Some interesting features of the plan are the built-in cupboard and fireplace with the tile hearth in the living-dining room as well as the dining space and the U-shaped working area in the kitchen. The house is designed so that a future washroom may be installed in the basement beneath the present bathroom. There is also a furnace room, workshop, a storage room, a laundry and unfinished playroom in the basement.

Total floor area is 1,167 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 44 feet by 26 feet, four inches. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 279, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Take-Apart Benches Have Many Uses

The bench shown above can be cut out with ordinary hand tools from a piece of 3/4" fir plywood 4'x4'. To be certain the fir plywood is made with a completely waterproof glue, look for the edge-mark PMBC EXTERIOR on each panel.

First draw four-inch squares on the fir plywood, and following the pattern above, draw the components directly on the plywood. The pieces are then cut out, rough edges sanded, and the notches filed, if necessary, to assure a snug fit.

When assembled, six screws will probably be required to hold the top of the bench in position on the supports. Holes for these should be counter-sunk.

Regardless of how, or where, the finished bench will be used, pains taken in finishing it will pay off in years of maintenance-free use.

A thorough undercoating, followed by several coats of high gloss exterior enamel, will produce a finish that will stand up to all outdoors weather.

For use indoors, a popular finish is the one-coat combination of wax and stain. While this may deteriorate if the bench is left outdoors for an

BEASTALL ADVISES

Rose Pruning Time Now; Here's How to Tackle It

By JACK BEASTALL

With mid-March safely past we can talk about the pruning of bush roses. It is unlikely that any weather severe enough to do extensive damage to the plants will occur now, but there is always that element of chance.

There is no specific date for this work because everything depends on the location of the garden and its micro-climate, and in some areas it is wise to delay pruning until the first two weeks of April.

Gardens, located in favored areas, that is on high ground or near salt water, are not likely to experience hard frosts from now on and pruning can be started immediately.

It is not easy for the gardener located farther inland or in one of the low-lying, colder districts where night frosts are still being recorded. Only past experience and a knowledge of local conditions can help in deciding when it will be safe to proceed.

Waiting a few days or weeks will be less damaging than going ahead before conditions are right.

MANY WAYS

There is nothing mysterious about the pruning of rose bushes, nor is it complicated as to be beyond the scope of the average home gardener.

As with all gardening practices, there are more ways than one of securing results. We cannot be dogmatic and say that one way is correct and the others incorrect, when all are used with success.

The beginner is mainly interested in learning the basic rules. Later he will discover less than the size of a pencil are no good for flowering and the energy used in maintaining these would be better diverted to other parts.

The centre of the bushes must be kept open, and any growths crossing, or tending to fill the centre should be removed together with very old growths which can be dispensed with because sufficient younger canes have developed to take their place.

Two to four strong, fairly young canes should remain, and these are reduced in length. Opinions differ as to the length that should be left, and the decision depends on the purpose for which the blooms are being grown.

LENGTHS TO SUIT

Standard practice in the past has been to leave six inches of cane, or three to four buds, when blooms are wanted for exhibiting, and about 12 inches (six or eight buds) for a garden display where quantity is more important than quality.

Today, the tendency is to leave the canes much longer, about 12 inches for exhibition and up to 18 inches for display. There is no hard-and-fast rule and the home gardener may select a length of cane to suit his conditions or fancy.

When shortening these canes which are to remain, the position of the bud is more important than the number of buds between the cut and soil level.

Cuts are made above a bud which points upwards, or away from the centre of the bush, excepting where an outward growth would interfere with the mowing of a lawn or would overhang a pathway. In these instances, a bud facing to the right or left is chosen.

After pruning is completed, remove all dead leaves and debris from the beds and spray the bushes and the soil with a fungicide for the control of fungus which causes black spot.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q. Our concrete walkway is turning powdery, is there any way to prevent this condition?

A. A "dusty" concrete condition can be corrected by hardening the surface with a zinc sulphate solution.

Mix powdered zinc sulphate, three pounds to one gallon of water, and pour mixture over concrete. Scrub with a stiff brush. Do not remove. After it dries, sweep clean.

QUIZZING the GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. — Mrs. W. of Duncan, B.C. sends three questions:

(1) How long a rest period should an amaryllis have after the flowers and foliage have died down?

(2) Would an earthworm at the roots of a potted azalea cause failure of bloom and gradual decline of the plant?

(3) Can you name two varieties of potted azaleas for me? One has red flowers, the other pink and white.

A. — (1) Potted amaryllis (or more correctly, hippeastrum) should be kept growing as long as its leaves remain green. After decreasing water to none at all, let the bulb remain dry in its pot for two or three months. Repotting is not always necessary but fresh top soil should be added.

(2) It is unlikely that the earthworm would have caused complete failure of an azalea. More likely it requires repotting in a peat moss-soil mixture and watering thoroughly. Cut off any dead twiggy branches. Spraying daily with tepid water for a few weeks aids in recovery.

(3) For naming your two potted azaleas you might try to obtain a book on azaleas from a library. Colored plates of Azalea indica might give you some ideas.

OF ALL PLACES

By HORACE SUTTON

ST. PIERRE, Martinique—The earth doesn't move here in the Caribbean when the volcanoes rumble in the far-off Pacific, but the citizens with their built-in seismographs feel the shock all the same.

There is a strange and almost eerie fraternity among people who live in the shadow of volcanoes. Here in the shade of Mount Pelee on the island of Martinique, the volcanic museum keeps bits of pyroclastic from Stromboli and Etna, and large pellets gathered from the eruption of Vesuvius in the year 79 which buried Pompeii.

A prize exhibit are droplets of lava from Hawaii which the Polynesian romantics call Pele's tears. Not the least of the rapprochement between these islands that float in separate seas develops from the strange similarity of two names that spell fire and trouble. Pele is the Hawaiian goddess of the volcano, and Mount Pelee is the Caribbean volcano which burst forth just 58 years ago in one of the most devastating eruptions in modern history.

One man's tragedy has, in the strange evolution of life, become another man's tourist attraction. Fresh off the cruise ships that come to anchor in Fort de France, the sun-tanned travellers are shepherded into cars and taken along the seaside hour's ride to the city of St. Pierre which in 1902 lost 40,000 of its citizens. Only one man survived, a prisoner locked away in a dungeon, who emerged with a scarred back to find himself internationally famous. Released from his sentence, he made a personal appearance tour of the United States.

Live Amid Ruins

St. Pierre never recovered and the few thousand people who have come back live there today amid the ruins, the empty plots overgrown with weeds, and the grand stairway to the theatre that still stands but leads now to nowhere. Few ships come anymore to the harbor although 18 were in the roads when the lid blew. No lava came from Mount Pelee, just boiling water, ashes, and stones heated to 3,000 degrees traveling at 500 feet per second. The British liner La Romaine out of Halifax, in the harbor at the time, was showered with incandescent matter and burned for 10 hours.

These morbid facts and figures have a fatal fascination for the traveler and have increased immeasurably the interest in Martinique. The three-hour tour, out by the seaside road, home by the mountain road, with an hour's stop at St. Pierre, is certainly the prime attraction here, and cruise ship visits have risen from a record breaking 30 last year to 52 during the current season. A similar effect on the local economy has been felt on Stromboli, the island near Sicily that is virtually all volcano. Stromboli, of course, has benefited not merely from the freakish reactions of nature, but by the even more powerful force of Hollywood.

Fancy Prices

The combination of an active volcano and l'affaire Bergman-Rossellini has caused a lively renaissance on Stromboli. Houses that were abandoned by disgruntled islanders in the '30s are fetching fancy prices from tourists, especially from northern Europe. There is a lively little hotel now called the Villaggio Stromboli, run by the Reverendo di Martino, and visitors are invited to climb up the side of the volcano, take evening walks to an observatory part way up, or sail around the base of the volcano to see the slide where lava occasionally pours into the sea.

Visitors have always been big business as Pompeii, the city of 25,000 which was stopped dead in time when Vesuvius, hitherto known as a peaceful mountain, exploded in 79 and swamped the metropolis. Its existence under a bed of lava wasn't discovered until the 16th century, and although Charles of Bourbon did some digging in the middle of the 18th century, serious excavations were not begun until the 1800s. Baths, houses, and temples are displayed with great pride by the guides, and not the least of the exhibitions are collections of some of the racy art of the day kept under lock and key but opened by the guides for a slight extra fee.

Reaps Benefits

A chance to see a live volcano in action has broken all airline records out of Hawaii where Pele has been rampaging all winter. Kilauea-Iki, two miles from the famed Volcano House that sits on the edge of Kilauea volcano, spilled forth in November.

Lava rolled into the Kapoho area in January and wiped out a lovely flowered glen called Warm Springs. Uncle George Lycurgis, the 101-year-old owner of Volcano House who feeds gin to Pele by spilling into the Halemaumau fire hole, has been blessed with new rumblings from Halemaumau itself. As always with volcanoes, one man's sadness is another's profit. Volcano House has been sold out since November and old Uncle George is well stocked with gin.

Although manufacturing and coal bring in greater wealth, more people in West Virginia are engaged in agriculture and related activities than in any other occupation.

Famed Gibraltar Latest Mecca for Many Tourists

Standing sentinel-like at the western approaches to the Mediterranean, the crown colony of Gibraltar is proving increasingly popular with tourists. Blessed with a mild and temperate climate and situated ideally for excursions to neighboring Spain and Morocco, the Rock is gaining considerable recognition in travel agency tour itineraries.

Easily reached by direct Madrid service with Bermuda en route as an ideal joining point especially for Canadian passengers—with stop-over privileges at no extra cost—Gibraltar captivates the visitor even before he arrives. Everything on the Rock is spectacular in scale from the scenery to shopping bargains and the aircraft landing, after a fast connecting flight of 90 minutes, is no exception.

Wheeling around the bold mountainous promontory which is Gibraltar, the plane begins a steep turn toward the single runway that juts out into the bay. From an armchair vantage point, it's possible to obtain breathtaking views of the harbor, anchored ships and picturesque town which nestles against the slopes of the Rock.

The plane touches down and then actually crosses the main road to Spain, which intersects the runway. Needless to say, traffic is halted well in advance of the aircraft's descent.

Sightseeing 'Must'

The town, which has a civilian population of about 23,000, is built on the western slope facing the bay and looks on to the Spanish port of Algeiras.

Sightseeing on the Rock is a "must," of course, and time should be taken to visit Europa Point Lighthouse, situated at the extreme south of the colony. The height of the tower is some 160 feet above sea level and its light is visible for a distance of about 30 miles.

Catalan Bay, a small fishing village on the eastern side of the Rock, which is only accessible by vehicle through tunnels hewn out of the mountain during the war, has a fine sandy beach.

Another attraction is to visit the Upper Rock and watch the lovable Rock apes at play. These animals have always been associated with Gibraltar and are carried on the rolls of the military garrison.

Many Bazaars

Gibraltar's Main Street, which winds through the town, is jammed with well-stocked shops and bazaars. Spanish pottery, mantillas, fans, ivory and curiosities from the East, Italian embroidery, Swiss watches and German cameras sold without tax are some of the best buys.

From Gibraltar, frequent flights and ferryboat schedules are offered to Tangier across the Strait in Morocco. Algeiras, Spain, can be reached by car, bus or ferryboat. A regular limousine also links the Rock with a number of attractive resorts along the color-drenched Andalusian coast.

In years gone by, many thought of Gibraltar as nothing but an armed fortress. Today, thanks to the determined efforts of local businessmen, the Rock has been elevated to the well-deserved status of tourist resort.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

TAMPA, Fla.—Al Lopez was discussing the Chicago White Sox.

"We've improved," said the manager. "We added good power and pitching depth. We'll make more runs."

They have always scratched for runs, but now they have Gene Freese off the Phillies to play third and a transaction with Cleveland brought them Minnie Minoso.

"Freese hits good," Lopez said. "I knew he hit 23 home runs, but I didn't realize what a real good hitter he is. Talking about Minnie he's the same as when I had him in Cleveland. I don't know how old he is, but I'm not worrying about it."

How did Bob Shaw suddenly become Chicago's second best pitcher?

"I wasn't counting on him last year," Lopez explained. "I was relieving with him as the long man. He did three or four good jobs and I gave him a chance. He used to sidarm right-handers and overhand the left-handers. He'd come high and they'd whack him. But Ray Beeres... my pitching coach... got him throwing over the top. It's worked."

They are a running team.

"If we can, we'll run more. Freese is fast," said Lopez. "The only ones with age on them are Kluszewski, Lollar and Minnie. It's hard to manoeuvre with Klu and Lollar on base. But Lu Aparicio and Jimmy Landis hit ahead of Klu and Lollar. I'll keep them running."

The only truly fast men on the team are Aparicio and Landis. The others are agile and quick. They rely more on audacity than swiftness. In the World Series, the Dodgers were a speedier team.

"We were a better club than we showed in the Series," Lopez said. "In a way, I was disappointed. That Coliseum handicapped our defence. Remember, it took the Dodgers a year to adjust to the Coliseum. The first year, they finished seventh. After getting used to it, they won the pennant."

The pitching, Lopez claims, will be more efficient. Last season, the only left-handers were Rudy Arias and Billy Pierce. They picked up Frank Baumann from Boston, Don Ferrarese from Boston and Jake Striker from Cleveland.

Donovan Has To Be Much Better

"Pierce is all recovered from that hip injury," Lopez said. "That means a whole lot. Dick Donovan has to be a lot better, too. He don't figure to have two bad years in a row. What a pitcher he'd be if he could put a whole season together. But he don't get started until late."

Their defence has always been tidy. Their big skill is stopping the other people with pitching and fielding. But Freese and Minoso weaken their defence.

"Freese has a bad habit of holding his hands high and stiff when he goes after a ball," Lopez said. "We're working on that. Minnie will pull a play once in a while that will scare you, but he's not a lousy outfielder."

The rookie who impresses him most is Joe Hicks, an outfielder, who batted .314 for Indianapolis in '59.

"He could hit," said Lopez. "He knows how to swing the bat and now he's learning how to hit the ball for distance. We got another prospect. Put his name down... Camillo Carreon... a catcher. He hit .311 for Indianapolis after making the jump from Colorado Springs. You got to respect a bat like that."

There are enough infielders and outfielders to fill in and they'll catch the ball and make the plays and get some banno hits.

"We could use a pinch-hitter who can whack the long ball," Lopez said.

"The Yankees, Lopez insists, are the main contenders. "The Yanks got too much class to be like last year," he said. "But Moose Skowron, he's a big player. If he gets hurt, they'll be in trouble again. Mickey Mantle is their real big guy. He'll have a better year. I know they're afraid of their pitching. Right now, they're trying to make a deal with Washington for a pitcher."

But no matter what happens to Mantle and Skowron, will be unimportant if Bob Turley and Whitey Ford don't stand up.

"They must have big years," he said. "Just fair years aren't enough. They'll have to be like they were or they won't be tough."

Splash of Drama On Hockey Stage

By Canadian Press

If the National Hockey League were a tale told by Schiller or Shakespeare, its ending in the 1959-60 season probably could not have any more elements of high drama than it does, in fact, contain.

Never mind the fact that Montreal Canadiens won the league title more than a week ago and that few had ever thought it would be otherwise.

There are enough conflicts to be resolved to give all six games more than ordinary importance.

Who is going to get the fourth and last Stanley Cup playoff berth? Detroit's proud Red Wings, who missed the playoffs last year but restored their fortunes in some measure this season? Boston's hungry Bruins, who have rallied just before it was too late?

TWO-POINT LEAD

The Red Wings are two points ahead as the schedule enters its last two games but the Bruins are riding the crest of a four-game unbeaten streak.

The battle began in Detroit today when the last-place New York Rangers, out of play-offs, visit the Wings. The Bruins tackle the Canadiens tonight in Montreal. They have not won in Montreal this season.

The Canadiens will have a strong interest in keeping the score down, because goaltender Jacques Plante is tied with Glenn Hall of Chicago Black Hawks in the Vezina Trophy standings.

The trophy, won by Plante the last four years, goes to the goalie who has played the most games for the team least scored upon.

The Bruins are a key factor in the Vezina struggle. Plante faces them tonight and Hall

CAUGHT 396,375 FISH IN 1959

Sports Fishermen Make Bigger Splash

A sharp increase in sport fishing in B.C. tidal waters is giving added importance to conservation and management techniques, the department of fisheries has announced.

In a report released by A. J. Whitmore, Pacific area director, the department said findings by sports fishermen are reaching significant proportions in some areas.

In the Gulf of Georgia areas, sport fishing accounted for 45.6 per cent of the coho and spring salmon taken during 1959.

The report showed sport fishermen took a total of 396,375 salmon and grise in 1959, a 3 per cent decrease from the 1958 catch but well above the 1953-58 average. In terms of weight, the 1959 catch was about 1,500,000 pounds.

Cougars Meet Totems Tonight—And in Semis

Opening Games Of WHL Final In Los Angeles

Victoria Cougars meet Seattle Totems and the champion Vancouver Canucks go against Edmonton Flyers.

That's the picture for the best-of-seven Western Hockey League semifinal playoff series today although some people may think that the Cougars still have a chance to switch places with the Flyers when the Cats tackle the Totems at Memorial Arena tonight.

Only an unprecedented 24-goal performance by the Cougars tonight can change the playoff picture for next week's semifinal opening games.

Flyers, who finished up their portion of the league schedule by whipping Winnipeg Warriors, 7-4, Friday night, have two more points than Victoria and have scored 23 more goals.

TOTAL COUNTS

If the Cats win tonight, they will be even with the Edmonton crew in the standings, but third place will go to the team with the biggest goal total, which places the Cats in an almost impossible situation as far as goal totals are concerned.

Cougars open their semifinal set at Seattle either Wednesday or Friday and will definitely play their first home playoff game at Memorial Arena next Saturday night. Canucks and Edmonton are slated to open their set Wednesday.

Thus tonight's clash stacks up as a preview of the Victoria-Seattle semifinal and, although there will be nothing but pride at stake, it is possible that it will be a rousing affair as both clubs attempt to establish a mental advantage for the playoff clashes.

CALIFORNIA GAMES

League president Al Leader came up with some surprising news Friday when he announced the WHL finalists would play the first two games of their series for the league title at Los Angeles, April 6 and 7.

The games will be part of the best-of-nine final. The series was increased from a best-of-seven affair to accommodate the California games without decreasing the number of games to be played in the home arenas of the participating clubs.

Leader stated that in addition to regular playoff pool payments, players will receive a set sum for games played in Los Angeles.

The games will be played in the new 16,000 seat Los Angeles Memorial Arena.

TO PRESENT AWARDS

Adding to interest at tonight's tussle will be presentation of awards at the end of the second period. Trophies will be given to the Victoria player voted most valuable to his club over the season and to the one who is judged to have best combined sportsmanship and ability.

Seattle coach Keith Allen has stated that Bill Christian, scoring ace of the victorious U.S. Olympic team, will see regular duty with the Totems tonight, replacing the injured Don Chiupka.

Canucks, playing three graduates from Prince Albert Mintos of the Saskatchewan Junior League, coasted through the first two periods against Spokane and downed the Comets 7-2 Friday night.

KILBURN GETS PAIR

More than 3,500 fans gave their biggest ovation to newcomers Chick Balon and Adam Keller, brother of Canuck defenceman Ralph Keller, when they combined for their first WHL points. Balon added an assist to his goal and fellow graduate Bill Wilkes twice narrowly missed scoring.

Colin Kilburn sparked Canucks with two goals—one unassisted while Bruce Carmichael, veteran Tony Leswick, Danny Belisle and Ron Hutchinson got the rest.

FIGHT RESULTS

NEW YORK (Madison Square Garden)—Edoardo Lausse, 160, Argentina, stopped Wilkie Greaves, 150, Edmonton, 4-0.

AKRON, Ohio—Bobby Gordon, 135, Charleston, Pa., knocked out Harry Budninski, 135, Buffalo, 1.

Host Rinks Set Fast 'Spiel' Pace

Visiting rinks in the annual ladies' bonspiel at Victoria Curling Club are going to have to hustle if they want to keep up with some of their hosts.

Nearing the midway mark of the bonspiel Friday four Victoria rinks were pacing the record field of 51 that includes 27 out-of-town quartets.

Ruth Jackson and Isabel Walkey had 4-0 records and following them were Doris Fraser and Renee Robbins with 3-0 marks.

Unbeaten after two games were the rinks of Marg Hurst, Vancouver, and Helen Berkey, Duncan.

Play will have progressed to the quarter-finals in both primaries and secondaries upon completion of the 2-45 this afternoon.

First games in the fifth event will be played at 7:15 tonight following a banquet for which the 5 p.m. draw has been cancelled.

TKO FOR LAUSSE

Hurting Eduardo Wilkie's Mistake

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eduardo Lausse struck back like a wounded lion when hurt Friday night, to make a triumphant return to the American ring with a technical knockout over Wilkie Greaves, the Canadian middleweight champion, at 1:33 of fourth round in their Madison Square Garden bout.

The end came suddenly and just when it appeared that Greaves was gaining command of the fight.

Greaves started the fourth round with a hard right to the head that staggered Lausse. But the 32-year-old Lausse shook off the blow and countertered with a terrific barrage of lefts and rights that dropped Greaves in the centre of the ring for a mandatory eight-count.

Sensing that his man was ripe for the kill, Lausse rocked Greaves into the ropes with hard left hooks and was pounding away at pink-skinned Wilkie in the middle of the ring when referee Ruby Goldstein ended the slaughter.

Greaves protested briefly and had to be restrained for a few moments by Goldstein but he then went to Lausse's corner to congratulate the winner.

Accompanying the Vics will be Oak Bay, which placed third in the Island Tourney, along with Courtenay Towhees, the while Bowker had 11 to add to Island champs.

Jones Still Grins

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—This was 30 years ago and the man they called the "Bonny Wee Golfer From America" had the British gallery in his pocket.

A month before, he had won the British Amateur at St. Andrews with a display that emptied the town with the slate grey roofs and left its rambling, curling streets unoccupied. And now, as he dropped the final putt to add the British Open, a wrinkled-faced Scot standing beside the green muttered:

"Th' mawn canna be human."

But Bobby Jones was. Pitifully so. He went on to capture the U.S. Open and the U.S. Amateur in that year of 1930 for a clean grand slam which is a legend of the links. Then he retired with a record of 13 major titles within eight years: five national amateurs, four U.S. opens, three British opens and one British amateur.

But the little wide-eyed Scot who stood open-mouthed beside the 18th green at Hoylake was wrong.

Bobby Jones, who was 58 on Thursday, is human. And the marvelously co-ordinated body which made him a golfer for the ages has more than its share of human frailties.

The hands which swung a metal-headed stick with the exquisite touch of a diamond cutter are twisted and bent. The feet which strode the fairways of the world with majestic tread are stilled in the unrelenting grip of metal braces.

Rust began to gather on the greatest golfing machine of them all more than a decade ago. It was diagnosed as a pinched motor nerve in the backbone. There were operations. The man who preferred to be called "Bob," not the childish-sounding "Bobby," knew more than his share of constant pain. It has, in its worsening, etched deep lines around the eagle eyes.

But Bob Jones grins and bears it uncomplainingly. And through it all he has paid back to golf some of the dividends it gave him.

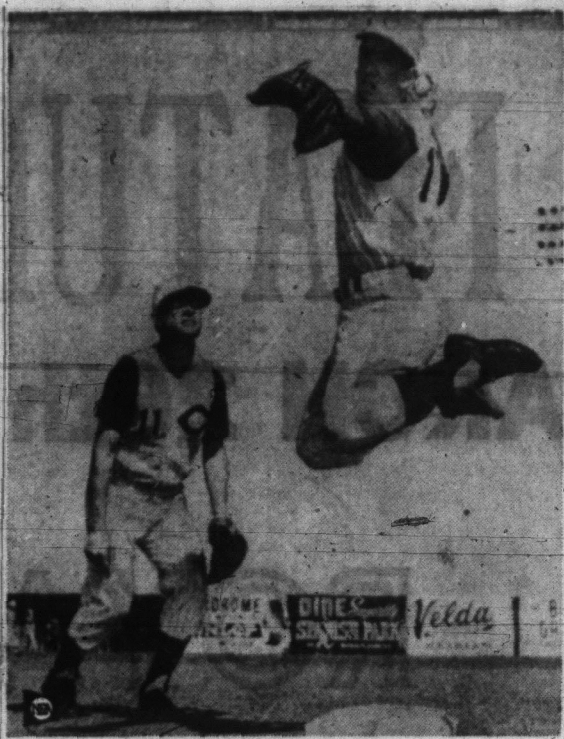

Though movement is a struggle he wends his way wearily and painfully to every golfing affair he feels he can help. He makes his speeches sitting down now, the cost too great to inch upward with his canes.

They'll hold a golf tournament down in Augusta, Ga., April 7-10. It's called the Masters. It could just as well be named the Bob Jones tournament of champions. Because Bob built the course, played in it annually until he no longer could stride over the fairways and, actually, made it the tournament it is today.

He'll be there, too, riding around in his golf cart and watching, with eyes brim-full of yearning and memories, as other men with willing limbs swing the little white ball in a game at which he had no master.

They'll talk, as they always do, of the dramatic, gripping moments of his Grand Slam. They'll remember, when they look at him, the fluid, easy way in which he moved and the syrupy smoothness of his swing. He'll remember it, too, at 58 and with the melancholy of 30 faded years.

But Bob Jones will hide it with a smile which is constant, warm and friendly. The years may have robbed him of his grace but they have only polished his graces. It's possible, after all, that the little Scot at Hoylake was right.

ON THE ALLEYS

Seven Straight Bill's Sad Fate

By MICHAEL ROSE

There is often a tendency on the part of those recording major sports to assign "records" to the most frivolous of accomplishments.

Every move of the athlete is carefully recorded and you might expect to find an account of the most steps ever taken to complete a double play or of the player breaking the most sticks in one hockey game.

Bowling is mercifully free of this sort of thing. However some oddities in the sport are worth noting and we had a couple this week. Bill Norris of Gorge Hotel, had seven consecutive splits on one alley at Gibsons in ten-pin play and at Strathcona. Ron Knott rolled 10 straight spares in one game on the way to a 568 three.

Bel Air Cabinets had their win streak snapped by Manufacturers Life at Gibsons but I don't suppose the loss will make them break out in a cold sweat. They are far enough in front.

Lady keggers snapping the 500 tape were: Ann Goodman, 557; Dot Bennett, 527; Mary Bishop, 510, and Jane Davies, 503.

Florence Gutoski just missed the 500 circle, finishing with 499.

Things began to get a little warm at Gibsons Wednesday when Derek Leonard was out for a spot of fivepin rolling.

Derek amassed quite a gallery as he threw 10 straight strikes and then missed a corner pin for 431.

Eye-witnesses are of the opinion that the ball was a little fast and although it appeared to hit the pocket took Derek was lucky to receive this "handsome award" since Sena Guest came through for the second week in a row with fine bowling at Gibsons.

Her 420 single was not enough to beat Leonard but the 958 after three was certainly the best of the week.

Incidentally she trails Stan Bell Jr. at Capital for high three of the season. He has 977 for league play and even that is not as good as Emil Liska's 1,005 in championship bowling at Capital last autumn. Cy Wallis' average went over 250 this week and this is after 75 games.

The week began to look more and more like a ladies' benefit when Gerrie Game at Gibsons' Friday mixed and Myrtle Martin at Capital each rolled 867 to make a distaff sweep of the top three five-pin slots.

Roberts Ready For Usual Task On Opening Day

By UP International

Managing the Philadelphia Phillies has its problems but at least a pilot never has to look far to find his opening-day pitcher.

Robin Roberts has handled that assignment no less than nine times and it looks today like he'll be on the firing line again this year when the Phillies start their National League campaign.

The 33-year-old right-hander, a 15-game winner last season, looked "ready" Friday when he and rookie Chris Short hurled the Phillies to a 1-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Roberts allowed five hits over the first five innings as the Phillies won their third game in four starts.

Short, a 6-foot, 4-inch, 205-pound left-hander, had a 12-9 record with Buffalo of the International League last season. He stopped the hard-hitting Reds on two hits through the final four innings.

Rookie catcher Jim Coker, a 287-hitter for Buffalo last season, doubled home Ed Bouchee with the game's only run in the eighth inning. It was the Reds' fourth loss against one win this spring.

BRAYES BEAT YANKS

The Milwaukee Braves beat the New York Yankees 7-4, the Detroit Tigers shaded the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6, the Chicago Cubs downed the San Francisco Giants, 5-2, and the Cleveland Indians out-slugged the Boston Red Sox, 11-6, in other games. Los Angeles vs. Pittsburgh, Chicago vs. Kansas City, and Baltimore vs. Washington were rained out.

Carlton Willey, one of the younger pitchers Charley Dressen wants to use more often this year, yielded two runs and eight hits in a six-inning stint for the Braves.

Al Spangler and Chuck Cottier hit doubles and Del Crandall a single in a three-run eighth-inning rally that won for Milwaukee. Bob Turley also was tagged for three Braves' runs.

Infielder Casey Wise had three hits, including a two-run double in the seventh inning, to lead the Tigers' 12-hit attack on Wilmer Mizell, rookie Jim Donohue and Larry Jackson. Jim Bunning, the American League strikeout king who never has won an exhibition game, was tagged for all the Cardinals' runs in the fourth inning.

Richardsons Trip Scottish Champs

AYR, Scotland (UPI)—A three-rock count in the 11th end gave Canada an 11-8 victory over Scotland Friday night in the first game of the best-of-five series for the Scotch Cup, emblematic of world curling supremacy.

Canada's Ernie Richardson rink from Regina, winners of the Canadian curling title last week, engaged the Scottish champion Hugh Neilson rink in a see-saw battle for much of the contest.

It was the sixth straight Scotch Cup game victory for the Richardsons who swept all five matches in the inaugural series against an older Willie Young rink last year.

The Scots, whose rink has an average age 10 years younger than last year, showed surprising strength as they battled the Richardsons on even terms for much of the contest.

Two missed shots in the 11th end gave Canada its big break. In the 10th end, Richardson was lying three when Neilson, on the last shot, cut out all three.

The Scots played more of a knockout game than had been expected.

Boy Drowns In Fall Through Ice

(Compiled From CP)

FERNIE—Dragging and blasting operations on the ice-clogged Elk River here failed to produce the body of Herman Hula, 7, who drowned after falling into the river while trying to retrieve a lost ball.

The boy, son of Mrs. Joe Sevinski, was seen falling into the river by four other children standing on the Fernie Bridge. They reported he fell through a three-foot-wide opening in the ice and saw his body again at an opening in the ice about 35 feet downstream.

FLU EPIDEMIC

QUESNEL—An outbreak of mild influenza has affected 500 persons in this area with a population of 10,000.

Dr. K. I. G. Benson, medical health officer for the Cariboo, said there is also an outbreak of measles at Williams Lake, 60 miles south of here.

TEACHER INJURED

VANCOUVER — A 20-year-old school teacher was critically injured late Friday when her car was struck by a train travelling 52 miles an hour.

Police said Patricia Anne Johnston was thrown 50 feet through the windshield of her car by the impact. She suffered broken legs and extensive internal injuries.

RCMP said she had started to cross the tracks when she apparently froze as the signal arms started to come down. Thirty seconds later the CNR Supercontinental demolished the car.

PARK SITE PICKED

KAMLOOPS — A site bounded by the Thompson and North Thompson rivers has been proposed for a planned park and camping area to mark the 150th anniversary of establishment of the first trading post here.

The site is in North Kamloops village close to the northern approach of the new bridge linking the village with the city will be completed next year. It covers more than eight acres and is half a mile from the site of the original Fort Kamloops.

The anniversary will be celebrated in 1962 together with the centenary of arrival of the Overlanders in 1862, a hardy band of pioneers who crossed Canada to set up homes here.

BROKE PROMISE

VANCOUVER—Leon Albert Deyeager, 41, of Vancouver, Friday was sentenced to six months when convicted in magistrate's court on a charge of breach of promise.

Police said Deyeager defrauded a widow of $480 after promising to marry her. He told the 47-year-old woman he needed the money for marriage arrangements and clothing.

The woman later learned Deyeager was married, father of four children.

NO MORTGAGE

UP, OVER, ACROSS AND THROUGH

Three sets of wheels enable this strange vehicle to scot through ditches, scramble over four-foot walls, climb 45-degree hills, swim rivers and even cruise sedately on the highway at 55 m.p.h. Its Swiss makers call it a rough-terrain vehicle, and it's currently being put through the paces at Battle Creek, Mich., to see just how rugged it is. To climb obstacle, left, front wheels of the "hop-rod" are raised hydraulically. The vehicle next pulls itself up onto the middle wheels. Then, front wheels down and back wheels up and over. Right, middle wheels are raised for highway travel.

Markets Close on Up Side For First Time This Year

By GREG MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets closed higher this week for the first time this year as investors came away from the sidelines to take advantage of a spurt in the western oils section.

A rumor, which caught on last Friday, that the National Energy Board would hand down a decision shortly on the natural gas exportation hearings conducted in Ottawa last month, shoved western oils ahead for the first time in months.

The surge in the oil prices picked up refining oil issues on the industrial side and as a result the industrial index closed the week with a gain of more than five points.

However, the market is still at a low level and the bond market remains as one of the biggest deterrents. A $200,000,000 Government of Canada issue announced Monday was readily absorbed and prices continued the strong advance experienced during the last several weeks.

Another drawback on the market is a lack of interest by U.S. buyers.

CHANGE IN WIND?

Despite these deterrents, many brokers felt that the current slide has about run its course and that investors are once more on the lookout for deflated common stocks with the hope that a stretch-out boom will present profit opportunities.

Oil refineries had the best week on the Toronto industrial board. Of the 13 listed stocks, nine advanced, three declined and one remained unchanged.

Seven of 10 paper stocks showed gains, while only one went down. Two were unchanged. The five manufacturing issues showed gains but all three liquor stocks went down.

Most of the copper stocks advanced with the exception of Klembe, which was hit by a wave of selling brought about by rumors of secondary offering. Golds were generally higher, as were uranium issues.

A total of the 24 of the 40 listed western oils went ahead on much activity and gains were good.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials up 5.19 at 487.02; golds up 1.13 at 89.15; base metals up 2.85 at 158.43; and western oils up 4.62 at 100.73.

Index gains at Montreal: Banks 0.33 at 53.06; utilities 0.3 at 138.3; industrials 1.5 at 281.7; combined 1.1 at 233.9; papers 4.1 at 414.1; and golds 3.75 at 78.34.

WINTER WORK REPORT DUE NEXT MONTH

Results of a National Employment Service survey to determine results of the 1960 winter work campaign will likely be ready about mid-April.

A spokesman said Friday it is expected that 1959 total of $4,000,000 worth of winter work projects may be "equalled or even exceeded."

The Chamber of Commerce is polling business firms and arrangements are being made for a spot check of work done for home owners.

Algoma Steel Sets Sales, Output Marks

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Net sales and production records were established by Algoma Steel Corporation Ltd. in 1959, it was announced in the annual report to shareholders.

President David S. Holbrook said "net sales of $162,696,199 were one-third higher than in 1958 and 14 per cent higher than in 1957, which was the best previous year."

Net profit in 1959 was $17,586,948.

The report said 1959 production of iron and steel reached record levels and shipments of steel exceeded 1,000,000 tons for the first time.

Two-thirds of Canada's forest area, leading natural resource, are in coniferous or soft wood, the rest mixed or hard.

Park Improvements Planned This Year

City parks committee Friday approved 1960 estimates totaling $585,962, up by $166,192 from last year.

Only change made in the estimates after a two-hour scrutiny was deletion of a $300 duplication before the parks budget proposals were submitted to council.

About $124,920 of the increase is proposed for parks development and improvement at Beacon Hill, Topaz, Pemberton and some 31 smaller parks.

Among suggested projects were: Grading, irrigation equipment, playground equipment and a comfort station for Pemberton Park at a cost of $17,390; $2,820 for dressing up the city's Cormorant Street parking lot with trees and other landscaping, and $27,055 program of development at Topaz Park.

The $18,255 improvement program for Beacon Hill Park would include:

Some $350 for completing landscaping of the Queen Elizabeth bust site; $350 for a carved log entrance sign; $560 for a path by the World's Tallest Totem; $550 for a pool at the low side of the old bandshell; $460 to straighten the Lovers' Lane intersection, and $1,540 for rock removal at the present bandshell site.

GAS REPORT NOT READY —CHURCHILL

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill said Friday he hasn't received recommendations yet from the National Energy Board on five applications to export natural gas to the United States.

Asked when the recommendations would be made public, he indicated again that he has not made up his mind about that point—or if they will be made public at all.

The recommendations must be approved by cabinet.

Brewery Sales, Earnings Hit Record High

TORONTO (CP)—Earnings and sales for Canadian Breweries Ltd. for the first quarter ended Jan. 31 were up 7 per cent and the best in the company's history, president Ian R. Dowie has announced.

Mr. Dowie reported that, despite the increased number of shares outstanding at Jan. 31, 1960, share earnings showed an increase.

Canadian Breweries' net income for the January quarter in 1959 was $2,091,593, or 62 cents on 3,211,397 common shares outstanding.

He said the company hoped to improve its present position in Canada where it commands more than 85 per cent of the market, and looks for large-scale expansion in the U.S.

Net income for the year ended Oct. 31, 1959, was $12,395,922, or $3.62 per share on 3,340,904 shares. Net sales were $333,700,000.

Canada's Law of Sea Plan Bitterly Opposed by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Thomas M. Pelly (Rep., Wash.) appealed today for rejection of a Canadian proposal that would extend to 12 miles a country's control over coastal fishing waters.

Pelly asserted that approval of the proposal, now under consideration at a law of the seas conference in Geneva, could mean exclusion of United States fishermen from waters off Vancouver Island.

"The livelihood of the state of Washington fishermen is at stake," Pelly wrote Arthur H. Dean, chairman of the U.S. delegation at the conference.

The Canadian delegation should be reminded, Pelly said, that the U.S. is a major market for their fishery products.

RETALIATION THREAT

"If Canada succeeds in this instance in overriding our American fishermen's historic rights, tariff and other retaliatory measures will rise up against her so that she may wish that she had never offered her proposal."

Pelly's argument was aimed mainly at Canada's proposal to raise the current three-mile offshore territorial limit to six miles, plus 12-mile control over fishing waters.

Washington state fishermen get most of their bottom fish from the 270 miles of continental shelf off Vancouver Island, "an area they explored and developed," Pelly said.

"Canada's formula that would set up an exclusive 12-mile zone is of course based on her selfish interest in excluding our American fishing boats from that area."

On the other hand, "she Britain's exports of office equipment to Canada amounted to $1,441,000 in 1959, compared with $1,333,000 in 1958.

looks to the markets of the State of Washington and the United States for the sale of her fishery products."

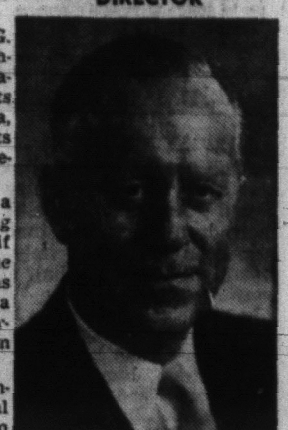

Pelly and Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Democrat, Washington) are suspicious of Canadian suggestions that, if its proposal is adopted at Geneva, an agreement on fishing rights could be worked out later between the two powers.

Magnuson predicted that a "real jolt to American fishing interests" may come later if "Canada maintains that the territorial limit question has been settled" and "it is only a matter of how soon our fishermen will leave Canadian waters."

"Any exclusive coastal fishery zone beyond the territorial limit of sovereignty agreed to at the meeting in Geneva in my opinion will not have the support of the United States Senate as long as Senator Magnuson is chairman of the fisheries committee," Pelly told Dean.

"In your conversations with Service Oil Company, Limited the Canadians I hope you will and is also President of Cities Stand firm on the basis that Service Refining (Canada) the United States Senate will Limited, and is a Director of not ratify any convention be Cities Service Petroleum Inc., yond a straight six-mile limit." ## PEACE RIVER POWER

Final Attack By CCF Fails

Premier Bennett reiterated Friday that there is no "give-away" in the proposed private hydro-electric development of the Peace River and declared there was no agreement where the people's interests were better protected.

The premier jumped to his feet in the legislature as the CCF opposition made a last-ditch attack on the government's plan to have the Wenner-Gren-backed Peace River Power Development Company undertake the giant development.

The debate came on a motion by CCF leader Strachan calling for the tabling of the company's feasibility report, which now is being considered by the provincial water controller.

The comptroller will make a recommendation to the government for or against the plan by the end of March. The premier said the CCF continually talks about give-aways to private interests, but according to Prime Minister Diefenbaker the CCF government of Saskatchewan was guilty of that very thing.

"SMEAR, SMEAR" In the Peace River plan, the premier said not an acre of ground has been given to the Peace River Company. There was no private reserve on minerals.

"The CCF are just trying to scare the people," he declared, "with a policy of smear, smear."

Mr. Strachan said refusal to comply with his motion was a "shocking display of government integrity." They were denying the people the right to see a report that would affect them. The premier obviously was "running from fear"—a remark which brought howls from the cabinet benches.

Mr. Strachan said the government was arrogant and was afraid its duplicity would be exposed. He was made to withdraw the word duplicity as unparliamentary.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Trade Moves Highlighted U.S. Activity

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Broad moves to improve the "United States" foreign trade highlighted business development this week.

President Eisenhower, in a special message to Congress urged "a more vigorous effort by both government and business to improve our capacity for international competition."

The government also announced it would guarantee American exporters against losses arising from "political risks" including currency restrictions, confiscation of property or funds, war and civil uprisings.

The labor department reported employment in February rose by 500,000 to 64,520,000. The total was a record for the month and 1,800,000 more than a year ago. Unemployment dropped by 218,000 to 3,831,000.

PERSONAL INCOME

Personal income in January was at a seasonally adjusted rate $393,000,000,000. This was $200,000,000 above the previous January high.

There were some adverse developments. Private housing starts last month dipped eight per cent to an annual rate of 1,115,000. Bad weather disrupted the marketing pattern for beef cattle and hogs and prices went up.

Wholesale food costs registered their biggest weekly gain of the year.

Newsprint Output Jumped Last Month

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian newsprint production last month was 333,595 tons, a 14.5 per cent increase on February, 1959, the Newsprint Association of Canada has announced.

Total Canadian shipments were 494,806 tons compared with 416,806. Most shipments—395,828—went to the United States.

May Sell Out

Canadian Plants

LONDON (CP)—The Hawker Siddeley group may sell out its Canadian aviation interests unless something can be done to bolster business, a group spokesman has indicated.

It would be a last resort. Sir Roy Dobson, managing director of the group, and Sir Aubrey Burke, who became his deputy when de Havilland merged with Hawker Siddeley, will go to Toronto next month in an effort to get their Canadian plants launched on a large-scale project. The spokesman said that "everything will be done" to keep them going.

Store Sales Gained During February

OTTAWA (CP)—Department store sales in February were 2.3 per cent larger than in the same month last year, the bureau of statistics has reported.

All regions except Alberta and Saskatchewan posted gains. The Atlantic provinces were ahead 5.6 per cent, Quebec 2.4, Ontario 2.5, Manitoba 1.9 and British Columbia 8.6. Saskatchewan was down 7.8 per cent and Alberta 3.2.

HEART DISEASE

---Where We Stand Today

This is the first in a series of three special articles by medical experts on where science stands in the battle against the commonest No. 1 killer—heart disease. By Jack H. Geiger, Jr., medical reporter for Newspaper Enterprise Association.

By DR. H. JACK GEIGER, MD

NEW YORK (NEA) — On the graphs of the vital statistics that measure North American health there is a black line that has been curving grimly, steadily, upward for half a century.

In that single ugly curve is measured the yearly toll of heart disease and its lieutenants of death, diseases of the blood vessels and diseases of the kidneys. In an average year, that line reflects some 900,000 deaths—more than one out of every two deaths in the United States alone, more than 2,000 a day, more than one a minute.

The curving line has a twin, a line that measures not deaths but illnesses—and counts the more than 10,000,000 Americans (including half a million children) who are living with heart diseases today.

Somewhere on the curves of affliction or death is the baby born with a hole in the middle wall of his heart, the school-child with delicate heart valves thickened and twisted by rheumatic fever, the young man with runaway blood pressure, the executive with a heart attack, the grandfather felled by a stroke. All of them are people we know—or people we are.

The Problems

Buried in these same curves are the problems. What causes a heart to grow imperfectly? What causes high blood pressure? How can we repair a twisted valve? What makes blood clot in the vital arteries that feed the heart muscle? Why are we, and other western nations, suffering a sharp and alarming increase in the yearly rate of heart attacks?

The twin curves, finally, may tell still other stories—that we are growing older as a population, that we are eating differently, perhaps living at a faster pace.

We're racing these lines in two ways: individually, in our personal struggles for health and survival, and collectively, in our hospitals, our medical schools, and our research laboratories. We're making another kind of graph, with the happier curves of "how much do we know?" and "how much can we do?"

It is possible today to put living hearts temporarily "on ice" so they can be repaired; to turn them off and start them up again, to stitch and sew them; to button up holes and sew in patches; to insert spare parts—plastic and metal valves—and to hook up plastic tubes as by-passes around diseased arteries.

LEADING CAUSES OF DEATH IN U.S.

LATEST AVAILABLE figures in U.S., those for 1958, give this picture of the toll of cardiovascular disease against other killers.

It is possible to control rheumatic heart disease and prevent its recurrence; to stretch the useful lives of people with high blood pressure; to inject new drugs that help dissolve clots; to prevent some forms of heart defects and to diagnose others swiftly and surely. Most of this was unthinkable—or, at best, a dream—only 10 years ago.

In one recent sampling of research for example—at an annual meeting of the American Heart Association—one scientist told of a microphone the size of a single grain of rice that can be introduced into beating hearts "to listen from the inside." It has helped to diagnose heart defects in more than 5,000 children in the last few years.

Another described a tiny stapling machine that can swiftly join blood vessels and may, some day, make the transplantation of whole organs easier. Half a dozen had results to report on new chemicals to dissolve blood clots—the clots that cause heart attacks when they form in the coronary arteries, strokes when they clog the blood vessels to the brain.

Three Needs

This, then, is the race—between the curve of death and the curve of research. And research, as former Heart Association president Dr. Robert W. Wilkins pointed out recently, has three needs: enough good men, enough good ideas and enough money.

"Enough money" means enough for "the long job of training researchers, in a dozen or more special fields. It means enough to keep them steadily at work, year after year. It means enough to buy or build complicated laboratory equipment and to run expensive cardiac research wards in hospitals, Dr. Wilkins declares.

"How can we safeguard the future of cardiovascular research and speed the conquest of heart disease? For one thing, we must understand and meet the needs of medical research by giving it the priority it deserves. For another, we can play a useful role in bringing the exciting story of medical research to our young people, with the objective of steering our most promising students into research careers.

"But, most importantly, we can voluntarily and generously support the Heart Fund. Through our gifts we can help meet the needs of research and so speed the development of new methods of prevention and cure."

The research race against heart disease will be a long one. There may never be complete victory, for heart disease is a human condition. We are not, in short, going to "cure" death, but we may improve and lengthen human life.

CAROLE WEEPS WITH JOY AT FREEDOM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After 162 days behind bars, Carole Tregoff is home again. The pretty 23-year-old co-defendant in the Finch murder case walked out of the county jail into the warm afternoon sun Friday. She was free — temporarily at least — on $25,000 bail.

On May 23 she must return to court to stand trial again with her lover, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, on a charge that they murdered the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean, 36, last July 18. Finch has been denied bail.

Their first trial ended in a deadlock.

Carole's eyes glistened with tears as her stepmother, Gladys, embraced her in the lobby of the Hall of Justice Friday.

It Was Gregory's Lucky Friday

Five motions submitted in the legislature by Victoria Liberal member George Gregory, were accepted by the B.C. government Friday.

"This is my lucky day!" laughed Mr. Gregory.

The successful motions were:

1. That all correspondence between the Prime Minister of Canada and the Premier of British Columbia dealing with immigration in connection with International Refugee Year be filed with the House.

2. That all correspondence between the B.C. finance department and the Vancouver board of school trustees dealing with sale of school bonds be filed with the House.

3. That copies of all correspondence between the B.C. government and the federal government dealing with qualifications of the L. and M. Logging Co. to fulfil a contract on Trans-Canada Highway construction be tabled in the House.

4. That the B.C. government consider reprinting of Speaker's decisions and distributing them to members.

5. That all correspondence between the B.C. agriculture minister, the federal minister of agriculture, the B.C. Federation of Agriculture or any other agricultural products to others concerned with the federal offer of surplus pork or hospitals be tabled in the House.

Chiefs To Report On '999'

Police and fire chiefs of the four municipalities will "get together and make a report" on practicability of a single emergency telephone number for Greater Victoria.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele will be chairman of the study, intermunicipal committee decided Friday.

Subject was revived by Saanich Reeve George Chatterton who pointed out that Winnipeg city and 16 surrounding municipalities have a single (Dial 999) emergency number service which costs less than 10 cents per capita to maintain.

By comparison, Saanich pays 50 cents per capita for a four-operator fire alarm service that could serve Greater Victoria and the Saanich peninsula, handling fire, police, ambulance and all emergency calls at no additional cost.

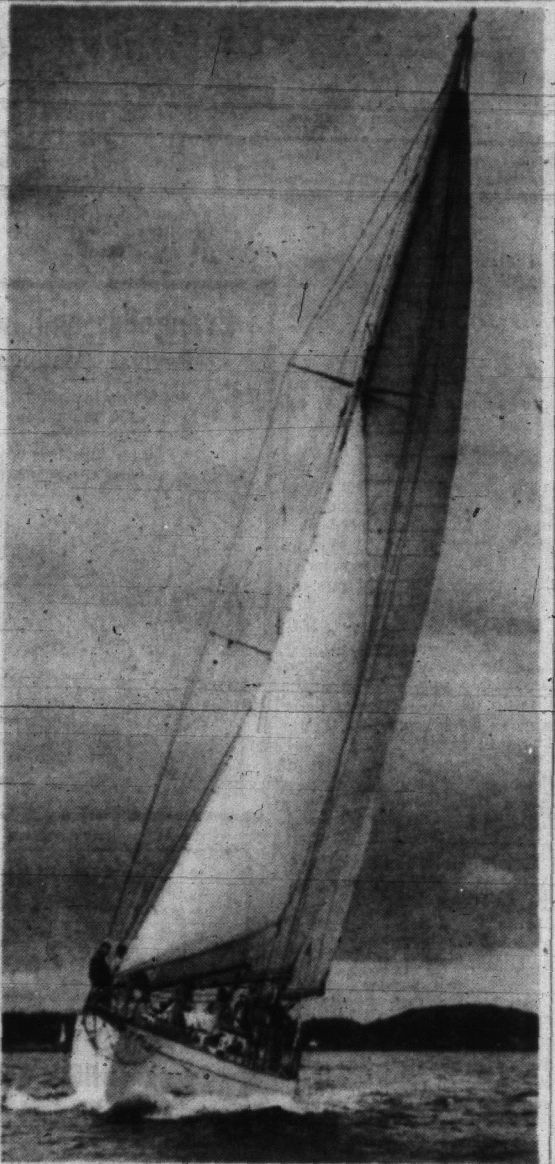

Reeve Wurtele said B.C. Telephone Company was prepared to conduct a cost survey for an emergency number if asked for it.

But the committee decided to ask the police and fire chiefs for a report first.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch said the committee should first determine whether there was a need for a single emergency number, which he doubted personally.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Saguenay, Ottawa, St. Laurent return 10 a.m. April 29.
Fraser returns March 30.
Margaree returns March 25.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in six years, Victoria will have an entry in the annual Swiftsure yacht race, scheduled for May 29. Vern Bruce is planning to enter the ketch Dragon, which last sailed in the race in 1954. Ned Ashe will be skipper with crew of RYVC and RCNSA members. The Esquimalt-based RCN training yacht, HMCS Oriole, lone Vancouver Island representative in recent years, will also be entered.

Last Big 'Beat' For Heart

A final "push" was called for today to put the 1960 Heart Fund over the top.

G. F. "Pat" Dunn, Vancouver Island chairman, said Island residents had already contributed $25,000 towards the $30,000 objective.

"I know many businessmen and citizens intending to donate have not yet done so," he said, "and I ask that all sections of the community combine to help the Heart Fund reach its goal."

Donations may be left at any chartered bank or sent to Heart Fund headquarters, 222 Yarrow Building, Victoria.

RCN REVIEW

'New Look' Affecting Reserve

The RCN's "new look" is causing a reevaluation of RCN reserve training programs, Commodore E. W. Finch-Noyes, commanding officer, naval divisions, Hamilton, said here today.

The "new look" is the general training in all departments now required, instead of the former system of advancement through specialist ratings.

"It is more difficult to achieve general list training in the reserve," Commodore Finch-Noyes, here on an annual inspection tour, said. "Our officers and men have a living to make in addition to the time they give voluntarily."

"Naturally, more time is required to acquire watch-keeping certificates in both deck and engine room departments."

Commodore Finch-Noyes said that, so far, the reserve is continuing specialist training "but we are making constant studies of the situation." Present strength in the 21 divisions across Canada is about 2,500, and there is room for close to 1,000 more.

Commodore Finch-Noyes said the reserve had benefited from the number of cadets joining after completion of University Naval Training Divisions courses.

4 ROUND TRIPS TO PT. ANGELES THIS SUMMER

Black Ball Transport is planning to increase its Victoria-Port Angeles service to four round trips daily June 13, Pat Frumerton, district manager, said today.

The stepped-up service will be continued throughout the summer.

Present schedule is two round trips daily during the week, one on Sundays.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What's the address of the Russian embassy in Ottawa?
H.W.

A. 285 Charlotte Street.
Q. Could you please tell me how names are chosen of persons called for jury duty to the assize courts? L.W.M.

A. A yearly jury list is established by the registrar of the Supreme Court, the provincial assessor, and the sheriff. They choose 300 names at random from the provincial voters list in the county area (Victoria) concerned. Prior to the assizes, the sheriff registrar and two justices of the peace take a "drawing" from whom selections are made at the trial itself. There are up to 48 of these who are summoned.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve common sense or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.
Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Thwarted 'Candy Boy' Wrecks Gas Station

Beer Thieves Leave Cafe In Shambles

A burglar smashed his way into a Douglas Street service station overnight Friday, searched unsuccessfully for cash, caused $500 damage in a wrecking spree and paused to scrawl his "calling card."

Stuart's Service Station, 3096 Douglas, was one of two Douglas Street premises ransacked during the night. Apparently nothing was stolen.

Saanich police interrupted thieves who broke into Northgate Cafe, 3240 Douglas, just as the restaurant's supply of beer and better quality wines was being carried away.

Coffee, fried fish batter and other food was strewn about the walls and floor and a cash register was dumped to the floor. There was no money missing.

DISHPANS ON HEADS

Police noticed activity in the cafe as a patrol car drove past. Apparently the thieves, who had inverted dishpans on their heads to avoid detection from outside, noticed the car turning around and escaped into the neighborhood at about 4 a.m.

Police said it was a glint of light from one of the metal pans that drew attention to the cafe.

Entry was by breaking a side window and bending steel bars apart to crawl through to the cafe.

A similar theft from the cafe took place within the past year and on another occasion a man was convicted for stealing $7 from the premises.

IN RED PENCIL

City detectives took a desk memo leaf bearing today's date from Stuart's Service when they found the words "candy boy" scrawled in red pencil. A fingerprint check proved negative.

It appeared the thief smashed the place up when he failed to find any money to steal.

Electrical testing instruments in a rear store room were dumped on the floor with a quantity of service records, tools and other equipment.

In the front office an adding machine and auto-accessories were littered on the floor.

Entry was by way of a smashed side window, then by smashing glass in the inside office door.

2-MLA Bid in Saanich Rejected by Chambers

Saanich Chamber of Commerce bid to get support for a move to give Saanich two members in the provincial legislature, instead of one, was defeated today at the closing session of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island convention in Port Alberni.

The resolution from the Saanich chamber was defeated by a vote of 15-12, with the opposition taking the stand the ACCVI should stay apart from political matters, and confine itself to interest in trade and commerce.

CURB MOOCHING

Delegates approved a resolution introduced by the ACCVI fisheries committee to regulate salt water sport fishing. It recommended that "mooching" be either eliminated and controlled, and that the number of power boats operating from large yachts for sport fishing purposes be limited to two per yacht. Additional craft should be row boats, the resolution stated.

Clothing Cargo Near Hong Kong

Three tons of clothing donated by Victoria residents for refugees in Hong Kong will arrive there Wednesday aboard HMC Ships Saguenay, Ottawa and St. Laurent.

The clothing was collected by Victoria Jaycees and Jayceeettes.

Jaycee president Peter Forward said a letter from Alex Wu of the Hong Kong Jaycees said arrangements had been made for the clothing to be accepted by C. M. Forsyth-Smith, Canadian trade commissioner.

Woman Found Dead On Mount Newton

Body of an elderly pioneer woman who vanished from a Central Saanich rest home in late January was found a mile up Mount Newton off an old logging road-Friday morning.

Police said it appeared that Bertha Alice Muirhead, 81, of Rughaven Rest Home, 943 Mount Newton Cross Road, had died from exposure or natural causes after wandering away.

She was the object of large-scale searches by up to 40 people and tracking dogs in the two weeks after her disappearance. It was not thought she would have strayed so far from settled areas. Rugged terrain in which she was found by a surveyor had not been searched.

Chief F. L. Brownlee of Central Saanich police said there was no suggestion of foul play in the death and added that the coroner may make only an informal inquiry.

The body was found in a small clearing amid heavy brush and uphill terrain off an old trail on the south slopes of Mount Newton.

Miss Muirhead was the daughter of James and Agnes Muirhead, descendants of British Columbia settlers and was predeceased by brothers James and John, and a sister, Agnes. A nephew, J. L. Muirhead, of Victoria, survives her.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Premier Bennett was scheduled to leave Victoria this afternoon for a 10-day holiday at an undisclosed location "down south."

He will spend Easter in Kelowna.

Three speakers will discuss "After School, What?" at the 8 p.m. Tuesday meeting of Oak Bay Junior High PTA.

They will be A. W. Tuckwell, National Employment Office, J. Wallace, chairman of the industrial group of the Chamber of Commerce, and J. White, director of industrial training in B.C.

Dr. Edouard Sonet, 1064 Southgate, former professor here at Royal Roads, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree May 18 from University of Alberta where he retired as head of the French department in 1947.

He taught at Royal Roads from 1949 to 1952 following a year teaching at the University of California at Berkeley.

Dr. Sonet came from France and joined the staff at the University of Alberta in 1910.

First in its annual series of three scrambles for the club championship will be staged Sunday by the Victoria Motorcycle Club on property off Millstream Road.

Tom Richardson, 1959 champion, will defend his title and right to use racing number one against top riders that include Wes Morhart, Ernie Hills and Vern Amor. Competition starts at 1 p.m.

Save the Children Fund on behalf of earthquake victims at Agadir, Morocco, has reached $551; the chairman, Mrs. W. W. McGill reported today.

Contributions may be sent Mrs. McGill at 3441 Mayfair.

Dr. David Turner, B.C.'s deputy minister of recreation and conservation will be a featured speaker at the annual convention in Vancouver, March 28-29 of the Insurance Agents' Association of B.C.

Cummin Summers topped six other contestants to win the "Wal Angus Cup" at the recent annual prepared speech contest of the Dale Carnegie Alumni Association held in the Black Ball Building.

Second place went to Mrs.

Margaret Angus and third spot to Art Mebs.

Fourth of five sessions in the 14th annual "golden gavel" competition of Victoria toastmasters' clubs will be held in the city hall chambers Monday at 8 p.m.

Friday's speakers drew 55 spectators.

Winners were Gail Smith of Victoria Toastmistresses Club with runner-up Bill Turkington, 3911 Hobbs.

Pending completion of an annual overhaul of CPSS Princess of Vancouver, two Nanaimo sailings will be cancelled Monday.

Eliminated for that day only will be the 5:30 a.m. sailing from Vancouver and the return 9:30 a.m. from Nanaimo.

IN THE SENATE

Fusion of Lutheran Groups Meets Check

OTTAWA (CP)—Incorporation of four amalgamating groups of Western Canada Lutheran churches was delayed this week in the Senate private bills committee.

Senator Salter A. Hayden (L.
Ontario) said the committee could not proceed without evidence that the four organizations want to merge.

On a motion by Senator
John T. Haig (P.C. Manitoba) the incorporating bill was set aside until such time as the representatives could produce certified resolutions or agreements from the church bodies showing they want incorporation as one organization.

The bill, an act to incorporate the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada, would bring together the Canadian district of the American Lutheran Church; the Norwegian Lutheran Church of Canada; the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada; and the West Canada district of the United Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The present Evangelical Lutheran Church was incorporated in 1951. The four bodies have a total baptized adult membership of about 60,000, all in Canada's four Western provinces and northwestern Ontario.

Rev. W. E. Riekert, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Regina, representing the churches' joint union committee, indicated he would return as soon as possible with the requested documents.

Another stumbling block in the way of immediate passage of the bill was revealed in testimony before the Senate committee of an Ottawa Lutheran minister objecting to the name chosen for the proposed new body.

Rev. Arthur F. Conrad of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, speaking in the name of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Canada, said other church bodies "feel the title is too all-embracing to be granted to a portion of the Lutherans in Canada."

He said his group, with 45,000 members in Ontario and Quebec, objects only to the words "the" and "of" in the proposed title for the new Western Canada body. It would be satisfied with the name "Evangelical Lutheran

Let Courts Hear Divorces CCFers Urge

OTTAWA (CP)—Two CCF Commons members, leaders in a battle against Parliament praying divorce, urged today that the government act to give the Exchequer Court of Canada the jurisdiction to deal with divorce applications from Quebec and Newfoundland.

A statement issued by Arnold Peters, Timiskaming, and Frank Howard, Skeena, said the government should take this step immediately, with a three or four-year time limit on the court's jurisdiction in this field to give the two provinces a chance to set up their own divorce courts.

Victoria Daily Times SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1960—PAGE 19

This province's only French-language drama group, the Troupe Moliere from Vancouver, are presenting "Zone" by prolific young Montreal playwright Marcel Dube. This is the play which won the Calvert Trophy when the DDF finals were held in Victoria in 1953. On that occasion it was performed by a Montreal group and directed by the author. It will be seen Thursday night. A synopsis of the play is provided in the official program. In this scene, sitting, Roland Boisvert; standing, left to right, Bertrand Lefrancois, Suzanne Boisvert, Elle Savoie.

Photo of Victoria Theatre Guild players by Irving Strickland. Other photographers include Croton Studio, New Westminster, and Franz Lindner, Vancouver.

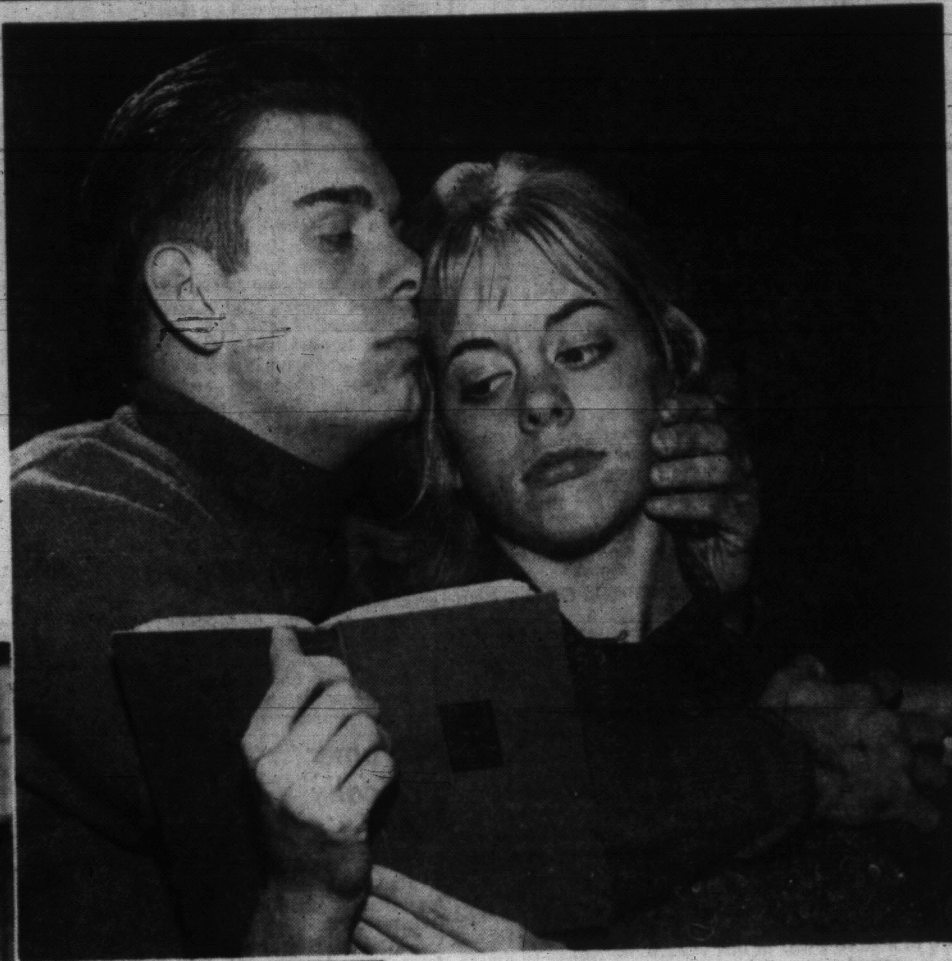

Experimenting to improve their makeup as they have worked to improve their performance as a whole, are Marlene Dixon and Anabel Cranston of the Victoria Theatre Guild cast of "Summer of the Seventeenth Doll," which opens the festival Monday night. Since the play was first produced at Langham Court Theatre in the fall, rehearsals have continued under director Phyllis Dilmage. Victoria Theatre Guild were winners of the regional festival held in Vancouver in 1952.

Critical analysis will be given each night following the production, by James E. Dean, MA, CDA, of Toronto, who will announce the winning play and make awards on Saturday night. Mr. Dean is the first Canadian adjudicator to judge a B.C. regional festival as part of new policy set up by Dominion Drama committee.

Tuesday night production will be UBC Players' Club entry, "Romanoff and Juliet," and will star former Victoria actor, John Sparks, in leading role of "The General." John's talent first showed up in Oak Bay High School plays; later with Victoria Theatre Guild productions like "I Remember Mama."

Previous winners of B.C. Regional Festivals, New Westminster Vagabond Players are making their bid this year with William Inge's "Come Back, Little Sheba," one of the notable Broadway plays of the '50's. Directed by Verlie Cooter, cast includes former Victorian Rod Pearce. Seen here in a moment of tenderness, is Walter Wilkie with Chela Matthison.

DOMINION DRAMA FESTIVAL B.C. Region MARCH 21-26

Half-a-dozen of the best! That's what theatre fans will see when they attend next week's parade of plays in the British Columbia Region of the Dominion Drama Festival, at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Opening fanfare occurs Monday night when local and visiting dignitaries and festival executive members will be among those attending the Victoria Theatre Guild performance of "Summer of the Seventeenth Doll," a tragic-comedy by the Australian author, Ray Lawler.

There will be one full-length play each night, representing Vancouver and lower mainland drama clubs. Personal interest for Victorians, however, will centre not only in the single city entry but in University of B.C.'s "Romanoff and Juliet," a costume comedy by Peter Ustinov, to be presented Tuesday night.

In this play, John Sparks, well known Victoria actor, plays one of the leads.

British Columbia is one of eight regions throughout Canada, where festivals are being held. Winners from each region will meet in the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver, May 16-21, to compete for the Calvert Trophy, and the $1,000 cash award emblematic of the best in Canadian amateur theatre.

Big moment in next week's B.C. regional comes Saturday night, following New Westminster Vagabonds' production of "Come Back, Little Sheba," when a Calvert Trophy and $100 cash will be awarded the play selected as best of the six and to be this region's representative at the Vancouver finals.

Individual actor and actress awards will also be made and there are trophies for best director and best-visual production.

Adjudicator for B.C. is Toronto's James E. Dean, a lifelong adherent of the drama with wide experience in Eastern Canada at both amateur and professional theatre levels.

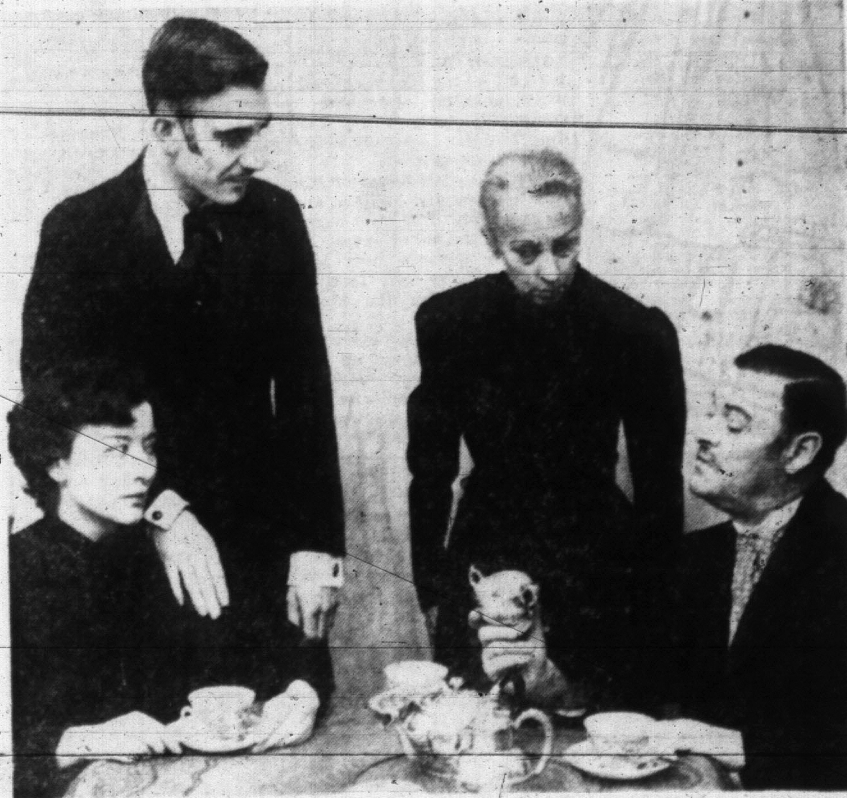

So 8:15 curtain going up! And may the best of the six best be all-Canada best!

On Friday, Vancouver Little Theatre, also winner of several previous festivals, will present Arthur Miller's poignant play about Italian immigrants in New York, "A View From the Bridge." Directed by Ian Thorne, formerly founder and director of the professional York Theatre Company in Victoria, the play is poised on the classic theme of the distortions wrought by human jealousy. Seen here are, left to right, Pat Barlow, Pegi Lynds and Al Kozlik.

There has been much speculation as to where Princess Margaret and Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones will live after they are married. Residence much favored at the moment is Buckhurst Park, Berkshire, an elegant white mansion, shown at left, near Windsor Great Park. This mansion is on the market and for the past month Crown agents have been taking a keen interest in it. In the grounds, at centre are a 30-foot swimming pool, tennis courts, a lake and extensive stabling facilities. At right is picture of main bedroom at Buckhurst Park. Color scheme is pink, white and gold. Other features of this beautiful mansion are its marble reception hall, a five-roomed private suite and four reception rooms which have silk and leather panelling. (Mitropic.)

See What You Want in Abstract, Belief of This Young Modernist

By JUDY NICHOLSON

Understanding abstract art isn't really difficult says Miss Pamela Butcher, enthusiastic student in this school of painting. "When you're a painter of modernistic and impressionistic art, you can see anything you wish in your work—and so can others," is her belief. She does agree, however, that the viewer does not always see the same things the artist sees. "This is true in any art, work with this mixture," she whether it be a still life of a bowl of lemons, a landscape or a portrait!" Vivacious Pamela began to "dabble" with paints five years ago. "I met Herbert Siebner and he encouraged me. Until then I'd had the ideas, but not the 'push' in the direction of an easel," she laughs. One of her specialties is the use of egg tempera in which she combines egg with her paints. "I don't do too much of my explains, "it has a tendency to dry a picture and fade out too quickly—but it's fun to experiment!"

Most of the time this young artist uses casein tempera which has additional ingredients of damar varnish and boiled linseed oil dipped in powdered pigment. "On paper this mixture gives a distinct impression of oils," says Pamela. She covers her paintings with varnish when dry to preserve texture and color.

Asked what her favorite subjects are, she is explicit. "I do nudes because I find the human body a good subject for expression whether it be contemporary or abstract."

Here's her theory of impressionistic painting. "It is a combination of light, color and shadow," she explains. "In abstract work, the artist puts his or her own temperament and feelings on canvas whether it is understood by spectators or not."

"For example, when I'm painting a person, I like to get his or her mood. I examine certain characteristics—eyes, neck—and dominating features."

She says she loves long necks. "Guess it's because mine is so short!"

Another twist to her work is the musical contact.

"I'm a real beatnik," she teases. "I paint to weird jazz. In fact I can't paint if I'm not surrounded by noise!"

"This young artist says Picasso is one of her favorites, because his work has depth. Others are Braque and Matisse."

An excited gleam sparkles in her eyes as she tells you: "Two of my paintings have been chosen for exhibition in the annual jury showing" (at Greater Victoria Art Gallery next week).

During the day Miss Butcher works in vital statistics department at the Parliament Buildings. "Evenings I relax and paint," she says.

"Some day, I'd like to completely absorb myself in painting all the time. Until then, I'll just dabble!"

Now—She Can Live!

TORONTO (CP)—Last October Joanne Taylor was given five months to live.

Now, after two deep freeze heart operations Joanne, 25, says she's going to "live forever."

A hairdresser, she made her modelling debut at a hairdressers' convention here recently.

Joanne was born with a hole in her heart which doctors said was too large to close. She had to avoid the least exertion.

A native of England, she returned there last October for a three-week holiday and went to see her former specialist. He gave her five months to live.

"They wanted to operate as a last resort. I had no choice, I was sure I was going to die," she said.

The first operation appeared successful until a blood vessel burst in her chest six hours later and made a second operation necessary. By Christmas she was well enough to return to Canada.

"You know what I can do now?" she said. "I can run the bus, I can dance all night, I can learn to swim and I'm going to, I can live. I can have children. I can live forever."

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Dick of Langley, B.C., are spending the weekend in Victoria, the guests of Mr. Dick's sisters, Mrs. C. M. Young and Miss A. M. Dick, at their home on Musgrave Street.

Carolyn Zabel Becomes Bride At Candlelight Service Friday

In a picturesque wedding Friday evening, Carolyn Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Zabel of Victoria, became the bride of William Weldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weldon also of Victoria.

Ceremony in First Baptist Church was conducted by Rev. G. R. Easter. Tall baskets of white stocks and pink carnations decorated church for candlelight service. Traditional music was played by organist Don Tunstall.

Entering church on arm of her father, petite, fair-haired bride was lovely in a gown of soft shell pink lace. Ballerina-length dress was fashioned with slightly scooped neckline and short cap sleeves. Basque bodice and tiny waistline were enhanced by a large taffeta bow at front with streamers falling to hemline. Bride's princess crown headpiece of pink velvet held her circular blush pink face veil. Her net mits and shoes were in tone. As "something borrowed" she wore her mother's pearl earrings. She carried a shower bouquet of shell pink roses and stephanotis.

Maid of honor, Miss Mona McConnell wore a petal pink organza gown. Neckline was scooped and waistline was accented by a wide cummerbund. Her feather bandeau and mits were in tone and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Bridesmaid, Miss Bette Ann Davis, wore an identical gown in shrimp tone. Little niece of bride, Linda Zabel, was flower girl. She wore a full-skirted pink frock. Her headband was of flowers and she carried a colonial nosegay of pink carnations.

Best man was John Weldon, uncle of groom. Ushering were Jack Zabel, brother of bride, and Gordon McBride. For wedding, mother of bride wore a rosewood and brown sheer-over taffeta gown. Her cloche hat was of white flowers and she had a corsage of pale pink feathered carnations. Groom's mother wore a beige-toned ensemble and a corsage of deep pink carnations.

A family reception was held at home of bride's parents on Cavendish Avenue. Newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake, which centred table flanked by tall white candles and bowls of pink and white tulips and narcissus. Arthur Nugent proposed bridal toast.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Parksville, the bride donned a beige sheath dress. She topped outfit with Elizabeth blue coat and beige accessories.

Victorian Wed Today In East

A wedding of interest in Victoria took place this afternoon in Royal Canadian Air Force Protestant Chapel, Falconbridge, Ont., when former Victorian Miss Catherine Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sadler of Victoria, became the bride of Robert Bruce Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Charles of Englehart, Ont. Ft.-Lt. D. Colley, RCAF officiated at ceremony.

For her marriage, bride chose a floor length gown of white silk crepe. Princess style dress was enhanced by a bateau neckline and pearl studded bodice. Sleeves were lily point. Her headdress of orange blossom held the veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Bride was given in marriage by Sgt. A. Colson, RCAF.

As only attendant, Miss Dixie Sagle wore a floor-length gown in pale blue. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Reception was held at home of Sgt. and Mrs. Colson following wedding.

Later, newlyweds left on honeymoon in northern Ontario. They will make their home in Falconbridge.

Highly Explosive 'Cocktail'

2 'Wives', Mother Got Him in Fight

(From Duncan Bureau)

Fred Roland, Duncan, was fined $20 and $6.50 court costs Friday after pleading guilty before Magistrate A. C. Sutton in Duncan police court to a charge of common assault.

RCMP reported the accused's estranged wife, mother-in-law, and common-law wife left the Tzouhalem beer parlor March 16 after an argument.

Roland told RCMP after a commotion on Canada Avenue that he had to stop a fight between the three women, and that in doing so managed to bruise his wife's eye with a punch.

"He could have done it by a restraining force rather than direct action," the RCMP corporal acting for the Crown told Magistrate Sutton.

The policeman added that there were two sides to the story and he didn't know which party was lying.

"Normally I'd send you to Oakalla," Magistrate Sutton said, but let the man off with a fine because of the circumstances.

HAT-CHECK

You'd be mad as a March hare, too, if your hat was being whisked about in the capricious March wind. But our fine-fetted friend at right is obviously not alone in his plight. Flying high are the headpieces of persons in many walks of life. 20 in all, who being less fleet of foot, in all likelihood are following in his footsteps.

Owners of these errant bonnets are listed below. You are asked to find a hat, for each one listed.

- A Pioneer
- B Fireman
- C Cowboy
- D Graduate
- E Pilgrim
- F Fisherman
- G Big Game Hunter
- H Pirate
- I King
- J Coolie
- K Soldier
- L Sailor
- M Baseball Player
- N Football Player
- O Duncie
- P Robin Hood
- Q Sports Car Enthusiast
- R Miner
- S Chef
- T Policeman

To avoid listing duplicates, check each owner and his hat as located in the scene.

IT'S YOUR MOVE

In submitting this wits-testing checker test for your amusement, Millard Hopper, long-time unrestricted checker king, comments: "You may need a second look to interpret this checker challenge correctly. It goes deeper than the simple 'three-shot' move that's perfectly obvious."

White, moving up the board, moves first, and wins in four moves. Do you see how?

Hopper's solution is presented below.

BLOOMIN' QUIZ

How many of the following flowers can you identify?

- The flower that by any other name would smell as sweet.
- The emblem of France.
- The emblem of Scotland.
- Three flowers that suggest a dairy.
- The flower that's known not to tell.

ANY COLOR AT ALL

CAN YOU PASS NANCY'S TEST?

Nancy was very poor in arithmetic and the teacher told her she would have to get a passing grade in order to pass the course. But the teacher, instead of giving her the usual type of problems, gave her the diagram shown here and told Nancy to write into the circles the numbers 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 so that each of the four sides of the square would add up to 28.

Nancy did not find this too difficult, and in a few minutes had the correct answer, thereby passing the test. Can you do as well?

Note: Numbers to be inserted are scrambled in diagram. Each is to be used just once.

The Gemini Pass which crosses the Alps in Switzerland reaches a height of 7,640 feet.

PASS MUSTER ON MOON?

A surveying party of 500 men on the moon had provisions for 60 days. Twelve days later, they were joined by another group of astronauts who were landed without provisions, so both were supplied from the original stores. The provisions lasted only 40 days longer.

How many men were in the second group of travellers to land on the moon?

It's possible to work this out mentally, but it's easier with pencil and paper.

The compass now in general use is based on one patented by Lord Kelvin in 1876.

CAPITAL GAINS?

E	A	C	O	N
C	L	L	A	R
P	A	T	R	I
H	A	L	E	D
B	R	O	K	E

If you are familiar with U.S. state capitals, this should be easy. You note that in each horizontal row of the diagram above, one letter is missing. What you are to do is to insert a letter in each square of the diagram, spelling the name of a capital city from left to right in descending order. With the insertion of the letters of this name, each of the six horizontal rows must contain a good English word.

Got it? Okay, after you've found the name of one capital city that meets the requirement, see if you can find another. There's at least one in the eastern and western portions of the United States.

TELL LIFE STORY?

From the following list of words choose the four that tell the life story of a creature that generally makes its appearance in warm weather. See if you can state the words in proper sequence, that is, in the order in which they occur in the creature's life time.

bison slaps bat battleship money water butterfly actor film waterfall tight tap sunshine chrysalis pie e.g. airplane shell caterpillar.

SESSION ENDS

Stage Set For Election In September

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter
The fourth session of the 25th British Columbia Legislature ended Friday afternoon with the stage set for a provincial election—probably in September.

Vital issues before the legislators were either power or the expansion of government benefits for the people—depending on where one sat in the House.

The Opposition contention that the government is supporting private power development in the Peace River, to the detriment of consumers, and turning over the wealth of the north to Wenner-Gren interests, was loudly aired during the 37-day session.

Government members on the other hand, made their loudest oratorical sorties on the subject of the 1960 budget—a record $331,120,119 outlay, containing benefits "for everyone."

Chief among these was the increase in the homeowner's grant from $28 to $50—and a 20 per cent boost in social assistance allowances.

These opposing summations of the business of the session are expected to be repeated and enlarged upon, over and over, throughout the forthcoming election campaign.

Premier Bennett maintained throughout the session the election could come this year or next. He said it won't be this spring. But most observers felt there was little doubt it will come this year after listening to his budget speech.

The premier, still convalescing from a kidney operation, will be busy until late summer, including a May-June trade-boasting trip to Britain.

'Blowing Works' on Vote Gamble?

The premier missed all the early part of the session and then made infrequent appearances for the remainder.

The budget dipped into surplus revenues for $25,000,000 to enable the premier to boost spending for public service by $36,000,000.

Some observers feel his action burns his bridges. Next year the surpluses won't likely exist and to maintain the same level of spending, new revenues will have to be found. He is "blowing the works" on an election gamble.

There were other indications, there was little or no controversial legislation submitted. The speeches of cabinet ministers were toned down from last year. If it hadn't been for the opposition determination to bring all the attention possible to the power issue—the session would have been lifeless. The less controversy, the less defensive a government must be on the hustings.

On the other hand, with the boost in homeowners' grants and welfare, school and public works spending fresh in the public mind—an election couldn't be held at a better time for the government.

It will come soon after the inauguration of the new government ferry service this

Russians Make Concession On Halting Nuclear Tests

May Be Turning Point in Talks

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union offered today to accept a partial nuclear weapons test ban on the condition that all world powers agree not to carry out any tests for the time being.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin made the proposal at a special meeting of the three-power nuclear test ban talks.

He told the United States and Britain that Russia is ready to accept the Western proposal for a ban which would not cover small underground tests regarded as impossible to police.

The Soviet delegate hinged his offer, however, on Western acceptance of a three-power moratorium on tests not explicitly banned by the treaty. But there would be no international control to ensure compliance with the moratorium.

TURNING POINT?

This could represent a major turning point in the deadlocked talks, although there was no assurance that the U.S. and Britain would accept such a proposal.

However, U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth told Tsarapkin: "We have just heard a very important statement. There can be no doubt of this."

WAY OUT OF DEADLOCK

British officials have privately hinted that a partial treaty with a simultaneous moratorium might be a way out of deadlock but the suggestion hitherto did not win favor with the U.S. or the Soviet Union.

Tsarapkin's offer thus might place the British delegation in an embarrassing position in the talks if the moratorium proves unacceptable to the U.S. The British government has carefully sought to avoid any real or apparent difference with the U.S. ever since the negotiations started Oct. 31, 1958.

The Soviet move falls in line with the Communist bloc's position at the week-old 10-power disarmament conference also being held in Geneva. The Soviet bloc has called repeatedly for a nuclear test ban agreement as a starting point for a wider disarmament treaty.

Today Radio Moscow hailed what it called the "sufficiently good progress" of the nuclear ban talks.

The broadcast said there still were differences between East and West but added: "Never once since the war have the U.S.S.R. and the Western powers gone so far ahead on the road to agreement as at these talks."

FRENCH REPORT

Plot to Kill Ike 'Phony' Says U.S.

GETTYSBURG (UPI)—The White House today branded as "completely phony" a Communist report from Paris that an American intelligence report had warned of a plot by French extremists to assassinate President Eisenhower.

The Communist report, carried in the organ L'Humanite, was called untrue by presidential secretary James C. Hagerty. He declared that the report was "obviously deliberate Communist propaganda" and "completely phony."

U.S. PLEDGES CAREFUL STUDY OF RED OFFER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eisenhower administration officials promised a quick, careful study today of Russia's latest offer in negotiations over a nuclear weapon test ban. They said the offer to accept a partial nuclear test ban seemed to be quite a concession from the previous position.

President Eisenhower apparently will have to decide in the next week or two whether to accept or reject the Soviet terms or, as seems likely, come up with some U.S. counterproposal.

State department authorities felt the Soviet move offered new evidence that Soviet Premier Khrushchev actually wants the test ban negotiations at Geneva to succeed.

LONDON (Reuters)—British officials today said Russia's conditional agreement on a treaty for a partial test ban appears to be "a very important development."

'WE WOULD START WAR' TO UNITE TWO KOREAS

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Vice-president-elect Lee Ki-poong said today that South Koreans are determined to unite Korea again, even if they have to use force against the Communist North.

"We would rather die by marching north than live this way," the 63-year-old Lee told reporters.

"Unification by force is not an ideal goal at all, but the present divided situation is so miserable that to escape from our misery we think of unification by force."

Park Crash Kills Man In Police Car Chase

VANCOUVER (CP)—A police chase ended in death today for an unidentified man when the car he was driving sideswiped a police vehicle, then plunged through a guard rail at Prospect Point in west-end Stanley Park.

The man was thrown about 60 feet from the car, which came to rest against a group of stumps.

Time we began to think of disarmament as an advance rather than a retreat.

Planes Gun Rebel Force In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—An army regiment revolted today and seized and held the northern section of La Paz against heavy attack by government airplanes and troops using mortars.

First government reports said three were known dead and seven wounded.

President Hernan Siles Zuazo called an urgent cabinet meeting. There were unofficial indications a state of siege would be declared.

Fighting continued despite government claims the situation was under control.

The government said the "Avelino Aliaga" regiment stationed in the capital of this land-locked South American nation had been ordered into action against the government by Col. Hermogenes Rios Ledezma while "in a state of intoxication."

REPLACED

The government said that Rios, director of police, had been replaced. Siles ordered the peasant militia of the Nationalist Revolutionary movement into action against the rebels, and received pledges of support from other forces.

The revolt broke out at 1 a.m., and it was thought the heavy firing was in salute to Siles whose birthday is today.

Business came to a complete halt and the streets were empty except for racing trucks loaded with soldiers and armed civilians.

Four government warplanes machine-gunned the rebel garrison but it continued to fight back. However, the rebels were unable to advance toward the centre of the city where Siles was directing government forces from the presidential palace.

Ceylon PM Loses Vote

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP)—Prime Minister Wijayananda Dahanayake today was defeated in Ceylon's first general election since the assassination of Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike last Sept. 25.

Dahanayake became prime minister after the assassination but resigned in December and called the new elections.

He was defeated by 483 votes in a five-cornered contest in his constituency of Galle.

Chiefs To Report On '999'

Police and fire chiefs of the four municipalities will "get together and make a report" on practicability of a single emergency telephone number for Greater Victoria.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele will be chairman of the study, intermunicipal committee decided Friday.

Subject was revived by Saanich Reeve George Chatterton who pointed out that Winnipeg city and 16 surrounding municipalities have a single (Dial 999) emergency number service which costs less than 10 cents per capita to maintain.

By comparison, Saanich pays 50 cents per capita for a four-operator fire alarm service that could serve Greater Victoria and the Saanich peninsula, handling fire, police, ambulance and all emergency calls at no additional cost.

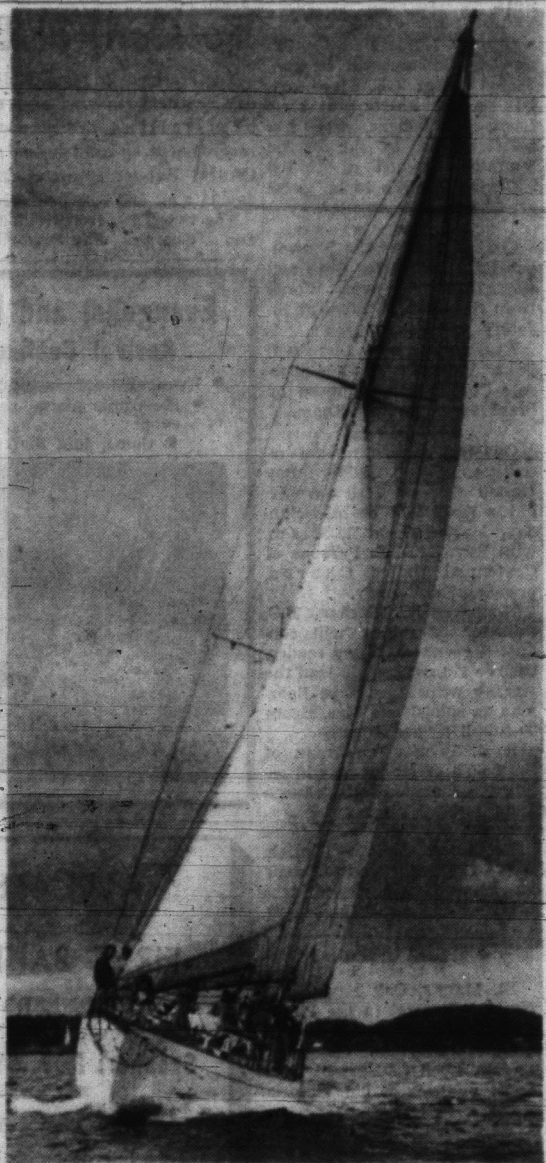

Reeve Wurtele said B.C. Telephone Company was prepared to conduct a cost survey for an emergency number if asked for it.

But the committee decided to ask the police and fire chiefs for a report first.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch said the committee should first determine whether there was a need for a single emergency number, which he doubted personally.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Sussexvale, Stettler, Antigonish, Ste. Therese return 11 a.m. April 22.
Saguenay, Ottawa, St. Laurent return 10 a.m. April 29.
Fraser returns March 30.
Margaree returns March 25.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in six years, Victoria will have an entry in the annual Swiftsure yacht race, scheduled for May 29. Vern Bruce is planning to enter the ketch Dragon, which last sailed in the race in 1954. Ned Ashe will be skipper with crew of RVC and RCNSA members. The Esquimalt-based RCN training yacht, HMCS Oriole, lone Vancouver Island representative in recent years, will also be entered.

Last Big 'Beat' For Heart

A final "push" was called for today to put the 1960 Heart Fund over the top.

G. F. "Pat" Dunn, Vancouver Island chairman, said Island residents had already contributed $25,000 towards the $30,000 objective.

"I know many businessmen and citizens intending to donate have not yet done so," he said, "and I ask that all sections of the community combine to help the Heart Fund reach its goal."

Donations may be left at any chartered bank or sent to Heart Fund headquarters, 222 Yarrow Building, Victoria.

RCN REVIEW

'New Look' Affecting Reserve

The RCN's "new look" is causing a reevaluation of RCN reserve training programs, Commodore E. W. Finch-Noyes, commanding officer, naval divisions, Hamilton, said here today.

The "new look" is the general training in all departments now required, instead of the former system of advancement through specialist ratings.

"It is more difficult to achieve general list training in the reserve," Commodore Finch-Noyes, here on an annual inspection tour, said. "Our officers and men have a living to make in addition to the time they give voluntarily."

"Naturally, more time is required to acquire watch-keeping certificates in both deck and engine room departments."

Commodore Finch-Noyes said that, so far, the reserve is continuing specialist training "but we are making constant studies of the situation."

Present strength in the 21 divisions across Canada is about 2,500, and there is room for close to 1,000 more.

Commodore Finch-Noyes said the reserve had benefited from the number of cadets joining after completion of University Naval Training Divisions courses.

4 ROUND TRIPS TO PT. ANGELES THIS SUMMER

Black Ball Transport is planning to increase its Victoria-Port Angeles service to four round trips daily June 15, Pat Frumerton, district manager, said today.

The stepped-up service will be continued throughout the summer.

Present schedule is two round trips daily during the week, one on Sundays.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What's the address of the Russian embassy in Ottawa?
H.W.

A. 285 Charlotte Street.

Q. Could you please tell me how names are chosen of persons called for jury duty to the assizes?
L.W.M.

A. A yearly jury list is established by the registrar of the Supreme Court, the provincial assessor, and the sheriff. They choose 300 names at random from the provincial voters list in the county area (Victoria) concerned. Prior to the assizes, the sheriff registrar and two justices of the peace take a "drawing" from whom selections are made at the trial itself. There are up to 48 of these who are summoned.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve community problems. For full-up attempts to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers. Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Road-eo Set For April 9

The Junior Chamber of Commerce today invited teenage drivers to compete in the annual Teen-Age Road-eo Saturday, April 9, at the Garbally Road property of B.C. Electric.

"We are interested in trying to find out what high school driver education in Victoria's schools has accomplished," said Tom Affleck, project chairman.

Graduates of the driving courses have been invited to compete, along with previous road-eo contestants.

The contest is open to any boy or girl between 16 and 20 who have not been found guilty of a "moving" traffic violation within the past six months.

The local winner will receive an expense-paid trip to compete in regional finals in Vancouver where a winner is chosen to take part in the national finals to be held in Regina.

Winner there will receive a scholarship.

Entry forms may be obtained from the Jaycee office, 816 Wharf, between 12.30 and 4.30 p.m.

SIDNEY - Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization, will speak to Sidney district PTA groups Monday at 8.45 p.m. in Sidney School. His subject will be "Education for the New World."

Margaret Angus and third spot to Art Mebs.

Fourth of five sessions in the 14th annual "golden gavel" competition of Victoria toastmasters' clubs will be held in the city hall chambers Monday at 8 p.m.

Friday's speakers drew 55 spectators.

Winners were Gail Smith of Victoria Toastmistresses Club with runner-up Bill Turkington, 3911 Hobbs.

Pending completion of annual overhaul of CESS Princess of Vancouver, two Nanaimo sailings will be cancelled Monday.

Eliminated for that day only will be the 5.30 a.m. sailing from Vancouver and the return 9.30 a.m. from Nanaimo.

Beer Thieves Leave Cafe In Shambles

A burglar smashed his way into a Douglas Street service station overnight Friday, searched unsuccessfully for cash, caused $500 damage in a wrecking spree and paused to scrawl his "calling card."

Stuart's Service Station, 3096 Douglas, was one of two Douglas Street premises ransacked during the night. Apparently nothing was stolen.

Saanich police interrupted thieves who broke into Northgate Cafe, 3240 Douglas, just as the restaurant's supply of beer and better quality wines was being carried away.

Coffee, fried fish batter and other food was strewn about the walls and floor and a cash register was dumped to the floor. There was no money missing.

DISHPANS ON HEADS

Police noticed activity in the cafe as a patrol car drove past. Apparently the thieves, who had inverted dishpans on their heads to avoid detection from outside, noticed the car turning around and escaped into the neighborhood at about 4 a.m.

Police said it was a glint of light from one of the metal pans that drew attention to the cafe.

Entry was by breaking a side window and bending steel bars apart to crawl through to the cafe.

A similar theft from the cafe took place within the past year and on another occasion a man was convicted for stealing $7 from the premises.

IN RED PENCIL

City detectives took a desk memo leaf bearing today's date from Stuart's Service when they found the words "candy boy" scrawled in red pencil. A fingerprint check proved negative.

It appeared the thief smashed the place up when he failed to find any money to steal.

Electrical testing instruments in a rear store room were dumped on the floor with a quantity of service records, tools and other equipment.

In the front office an adding machine and auto accessories were littered on the floor.

Woman Found Dead On Mount Newton

Body of an elderly pioneer woman who vanished from a Central Saanich rest home in late January was found a mile up Mount Newton off an old logging road Friday morning.

Police said it appeared that Bertha Alice Muirhead, 81, of Rughaven Rest Home, 943 Mount Newton Cross Road, had died from exposure or natural causes after wandering away.

She was the object of large-scale searches by up to 40 people and tracking dogs in the two weeks after her disappearance. It was not thought she would have strayed so far from settled areas. Rugged terrain in which she was found by a surveyor had not been searched.

Chief F. L. Brownlee of Central Saanich police said there was no suggestion of foul play in the death and added that the coroner may make only an informal inquiry.

The body was found in a small clearing amid heavy brush and uphill terrain off an old trail on the south slopes of Mount Newton.

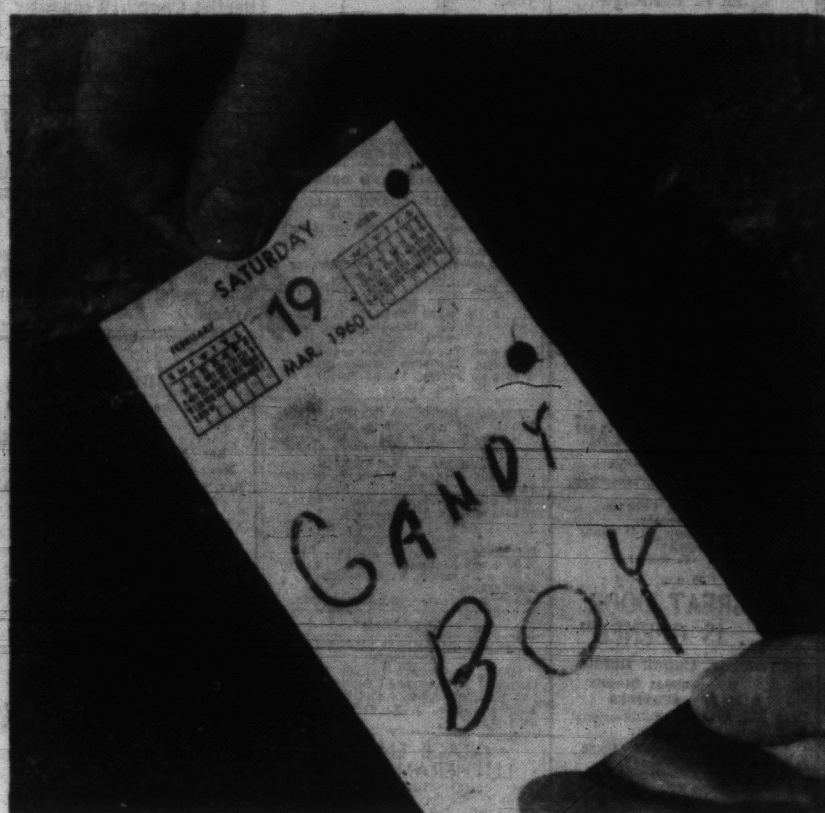

Miss Muirhead was the daughter of James and Agnes Muirhead, descendants of British Columbia settlers and was predeceased by brothers James and John, and a sister, Agnes. A nephew, J. L. Muirhead, of Victoria, survives her.

Funeral will be held at Sands Funeral Chapel, time to be announced.

FLAG BILL PUT AWAY

Creation of an exclusive British Columbia flag similar in design to the 1958 centennial flag was shelved by the legislature Friday.

A bill authorizing this flag still stood on the order paper when the House prorogued. It is expected to be re-introduced at the next session.

2-MLA Bid in Saanich Rejected by Chambers

Saanich Chamber of Commerce bid to get support for a move to give Saanich two members in the provincial legislature, instead of one, was defeated today at the closing session of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island convention in Port Alberni.

The resolution from the Saanich chamber was defeated by a vote of 15-12, with the opposition taking the stand the ACCVI should stay apart from political matters, and confine itself to interest in trade and commerce.

CURB MOOCHING

Delegates approved a resolution introduced by the ACCVI fisheries committee to regulate salt water sport fishing. It recommended that "mooching" be either eliminated and controlled, and that the number of power boats operating from large yachts for sport fishing purposes be limited to two per yacht. Additional craft should be row boats, the resolution stated.

Adopted were resolutions from Campbell River Chamber of Commerce asking for support of the Powell River chamber in its bid to have a ferry service established between the mainland and Quadra Island, and for northern extension of the Island Highway to Port Hardy.

A suggestion from the Campbell River chamber that short-term anglers' licences for out-of-province sportsmen, to cost less than the $7 charged for a 12-month licence, was tabled.

Support was given the Tofofo chamber's resolutions to have the Alberni-Tofofo road widened to highway standards and kept open at all times, and to have campsites established at Tofofo, Kennedy Lake, and Long Beach for the benefit of tourists.

Officers elected at the convention were Will Dobson, Duncan, president; Eric L. Mallett, Victoria, vice-president; and J. Russ Dudley, Nanaimo, secretary-treasurer.

MONDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Gyro Club: Noon, Empress Hotel. Inspector R. J. Ross, RCMP, will be speaker.

Douglas Rotary: 7 p.m., Holyrood House. A quiz will be held.

200 CHILDREN TO STAGE 'THEY HAVE NO HOMES' SHOW

In an effort to provide help at the local level for World Refugee Year activities, the Victoria branch, Save The Children Fund, will stage a big pageant in May.

More than 200 students from various city schools are expected to participate.

The pageant, entitled, "They Have No Homes," will be presented in the gardens of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, May 23 at 3.30 p.m.

Patrons of the event, proceeds from which will go towards rehabilitation of the world's refugees, will be Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross.

Quota of the local world refugee committee is $50,000.

Mrs. Davis Going To Essondale Early Next Week

Mrs. Etheline Davis, found not guilty Friday of the murder of her husband because of insanity will be taken to the provincial mental home at Essondale Monday or Tuesday, police said today.

The murder of William A. Davis, Victoria car dealer, took place Oct. 9, 1947, and Mrs. Davis had been confined in the mental home until judged fit to stand trial.

An Assize Court Jury took only three-quarters of an hour to decide the accused was not guilty by reason of insanity.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Premier Bennett was scheduled to leave Victoria this afternoon for a 10-day holiday at an undisclosed location "down south."

He will spend Easter in Kelowna.

Three speakers will discuss "After School, What?" at the 8 p.m. Tuesday meeting of Oak Bay Junior High PTA.

They will be A. W. Tuckwell, National Employment Office; J. Wallace, chairman of the Industrial group of the Chamber of Commerce; and J. White, director of industrial training in B.C.

Dr. Edouard Sonet, 1064 Southgate, former professor here at Royal Roads, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree May 18 from University of Alberta where he retired as head of the French department in 1947.

He taught at Royal Roads from 1949 to 1952 following a year teaching at the University of California at Berkeley.

Dr. Sonet came from France and joined the staff at the University of Alberta in 1910.

First in its annual series of three scrambles for the club championship will be staged Sunday by the Victoria Motorcycle Club on property off Millstream Road.

Tom Richardson, 1959 champion, will defend his title and right to use racing number one against top riders that include Wes Morhart, Ernie Hills and Vern Amyot. Competition starts at 1 p.m.

Save the Children Fund on behalf of earthquake victims at Agadir, Morocco, has reached $551, the chairman, Mrs. W. W. McGill reported today.

Contributions may be sent Mrs. McGill at 3441 Mayfair.

Dr. David Turner, B.C.'s deputy minister of parks and recreation, will be a featured speaker at the annual convention of the Insurance Agents' Association of B.C.

Cummin Summers topped six other contestants to win the "Wal Angus Cup" at the recent annual prepared speech contest of the Dale Carnegie Alumni Association held in the Black Ball Building.

Second place went to Mrs.

Fourth of five sessions in the 14th annual "golden gavel" competition of Victoria toastmasters' clubs will be held in the city hall chambers Monday at 8 p.m.

Friday's speakers drew 55 spectators.

Winners were Gail Smith of Victoria Toastmistresses Club with runner-up Bill Turkington, 3911 Hobbs.

Pending completion of annual overhaul of CESS Princess of Vancouver, two Nanaimo sailings will be cancelled Monday.

Eliminated for that day only will be the 5.30 a.m. sailing from Vancouver and the return 9.30 a.m. from Nanaimo.

McArthur Excellent After Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, 80, today underwent an operation for a prostate gland ailment. His condition afterward was termed excellent.

Suspect Remanded in Disarming Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Conrad Gunn, 29, was remanded today to March 24 when he appeared in police court, charged with robbing a detective of his gun. No plea was entered and bail was set at $15,000.

Burdette Ends Holdout on Braves

SESSION ENDS

Stage Set For Election In September

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter
The fourth session of the 25th British Columbia Legislature ended Friday afternoon with the stage set for a provincial election—probably in September.

Vital issues before the legislators were either power or the expansion of government benefits for the people depending on where one sat in the House.

The Opposition contention that the government is supporting private power development in the Peace River, to the detriment of consumers, and turning over the wealth of the north to Wenner-Gren interests, was loudly aired during the 37-day session.

Government members on the other hand, made their loudest oratorical sorties on the subject of the 1960 budget—a record $331,120,119 outlay, containing benefits "for everyone."

Chief among these was the increase in the homeowner's grant from $28 to $50—and a 20 per cent boost in social assistance allowances.

These opposing summations of the business of the session are expected to be repeated and enlarged upon; over and over, throughout the forthcoming election campaign.

Premier Bennett maintained throughout the session the election could come this year or next. He said it won't be this spring. But most observers felt there was little doubt it will come this year after listening to his budget speech.

The premier, still convalescing from a kidney operation will be busy until late summer, including a May-June trade-boasting trip to Britain.

'Blowing Works' on Vote Gamble?

The premier missed all the early part of the session and then made infrequent appearances for the remainder.

Th. budget dipped into surplus revenues for $25,000,000 to enable the premier to boost spending for public service by $56,000,000.

Some observers feel his action burns his bridges. Next year the surpluses won't likely exist and to maintain the same level of spending, new revenues will have to be found. He is "blowing the works" on an election gamble.

Woman Attacked

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said a 37-year-old woman was raped, slashed with scissors and threatened with death early today by a man who broke into her home. A 23-year-old suspect was arrested later.

Ice Stars to Wed?

NEW YORK (AP)—Carol Heiss and Hayes Alan Jenkins, both Olympic figure-skating champions, will announce their engagement Monday night, the New York Journal-American reported today.

'WE WOULD START WAR' TO UNITE TWO KOREAS

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Vice-president-elect Lee Ki-poong said today that South Koreans are determined to unite Korea again, even if they have to use force against the Communist North.

"We would rather die by marching north than live this way," the 63-year-old Lee told reporters.

"Unification by force is not an ideal goal at all, but the present divided situation is so miserable that to escape from our misery we think of unification by force."

CITY MEN NABBED ON DRUG CHARGE

Planes Gun Rebel Force In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—An army regiment revolted today and seized and held the northern section of La Paz against heavy attack by government airplanes and troops using mortars.

First government reports said three were known dead and seven wounded.

President Hernan Siles Zuazo called an urgent cabinet meeting. There were unofficial indications a state of siege would be declared.

Fighting continued despite government claims the situation was under control.

The government said the "Avelino Aliaga" regiment stationed in the capital of this land-locked South American nation had been ordered into action against the government by Col. Hermogenes Rios Ledezma while "in a state of intoxication."

REPLACED

The government said that Rios, director of police, had been replaced. Siles ordered the peasant militia of the Nationalist Revolutionary movement into action against the rebels, and received pledges of support from other forces.

The revolt broke out at 1 a.m., and it was thought the heavy firing was in salute to Siles whose birthday is today.

Business came to a complete halt and the streets were empty except for racing trucks loaded with soldiers and armed civilians.

Four government warplanes machine-gunned the rebel garrison but it continued to fight back. However, the rebels were unable to advance toward the centre of the city where Siles was directing government forces from the presidential palace.

FRENCH REPORT

Plot to Kill Ike 'Phony' Says U.S.

GETTYSBURG (UPI)—The White House today branded as "completely phony" a Communist report from Paris that an American intelligence report had warned of a plot by French extremists to assassinate President Eisenhower.

The Communist report, carried in the organ L'Humanite, was called untrue by presidential secretary James C. Hagerty. He declared that the report was "obviously deliberate Communist propaganda" and "completely phony."

Police confiscated copies of the paper from Paris newsstands before dawn. The paper said the U.S. report charged that members of a French army "secret society" had been talking about an attempt to kill Eisenhower or "the Russian chief of state" in the hopes of touching off a "necessary war."

L'Humanite's Alain Guerin claimed the report was prepared by Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, a White House aide.

Hagerty said this was ridiculous.

... A YOUNG KID'S FANCY

Spring will arrive in Victoria Sunday at 6.43 a.m., and will be greeted by cloudy but mild weather, according to weatherman William Mackie. Rain is in offing. A few swallows have been spotted by sharp-eyed residents, but easy to see are other harbingers of spring—three tiny, inscrutable kids at Glanford Avenue farm of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smart. (Halkett Photo.)

'SWEET PEA'

NOT SO SWEET

NIANTIC, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Charles Hurshman heard that a skunk was frolicking on a neighbor's lawn, and rushed over to see if it was pet skunk Sweet Pea.

"It looked just like Sweet Pea," she said. But it wasn't.

She found out the hard way.

Ceylon PM Loses Vote

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP)—Prime Minister Wijayananda Dahanayake today was defeated in Ceylon's first general election since the assassination of Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike last Sept. 25.

Dahanayake became prime minister after the assassination but resigned in December and called the new elections.

He was defeated by 483 votes in a five-cornered contest in his constituency of Galle.

RANGERS BLASTED 6-3

Detroit Within Point of Playoff

DETROIT (CP)—Despite Dean Prentice's three-goal effort, Detroit Red Wings grabbed a 6-3 decision over New York Rangers and pulled within a single point of clinching a playoff berth in a televised National Hockey League game today.

The last-place Rangers had nothing at stake but played like they too were after a playoff spot.

Norm Ullman and Murray Oliver each scored twice for Detroit, which tightened its hold on fourth place to four points over Boston. The Bruins are in action tonight at Montreal.

Regardless of the outcome of that game—or Boston's finale Sunday against Chicago—the Wings can clinch a playoff spot by beating or tying Toronto in Sunday's windup.

Because of the league tie-breaking machinery, Detroit must finish at least one point ahead of the Bruins to claim fourth place. If the two teams finish tied for the position, Boston would get the nod because of the most victories.

The Wings looked like they wanted to clinch this game and a playoff spot all in the first few minutes of action. They had a 2-0 lead before the game was three minutes old.

New York came back to knot it late in the period. Detroit pulled out again, 4-2, in the middle stanza but again the Rangers rallied to make it 4-3. But there was no further answer when the Wings scored twice in the first two minutes of the final period.

SUMMARY
FIRST PERIOD
1. Detroit, Ullman (unassisted) 2-0
2. New York, Prentice (Oliver) 1-2
Penalties: None

Police Arrest Pair in Nanaimo

Two Victoria men, trailed before their arrest by city detectives and RCMP plainclothesmen, were charged in Nanaimo police court today with possession of 50 capsules of heroin.

Michael David Errett and Douglas Edward Carlson were remanded without plea to March 28. They will be held at Oakalla Prison.

RCMP criminal investigation bureau in Victoria said today the two men were under surveillance over a period of time and were followed to Nanaimo Friday.

They are alleged to have taken a ferry to Vancouver and were arrested when they landed back at Nanaimo, heading for Victoria Friday night.

City police are intensifying measures aimed at large scale crime in view of a tightening up by police of narcotics traffickers on the mainland.

Recent outbursts in Victoria are claimed to be connected with Vancouver gangs.

There have been four major safe-cracking or attempted safe-cracking jobs here in the past week.

TURNING POINT?

Soviet Makes Concessions On A-Test Ban

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union offered today to accept a partial nuclear weapons test ban on the condition that all world powers agree not to carry out any tests for the time being.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin made the proposal at a special meeting of the three-power nuclear test ban talks.

He told the United States and Britain that Russia is ready to accept the Western proposal for a ban which would not cover small underground tests regarded as impossible to police.

The Soviet delegate hinged his offer, however, on Western acceptance of a three-power moratorium on tests not explicitly banned by the treaty. But there would be no international control to ensure compliance with the moratorium.

TURNING POINT?

This could represent a major turning point in the deadlocked talks, although there was no assurance that the U.S. and Britain would accept such a proposal.

However, U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth told Tsarapkin: "We have just heard a very important statement. There can be no doubt of this."

Wadsworth said the proposal was "very important."

Crash Kills Youth In Police Car Chase

VANCOUVER (CP)—A police chase ended in death today for a 17-year-old youth when the borrowed car he was driving sideswiped a police vehicle, then plunged through a guard rail at Prospect Point in west-end Stanley Park.

The victim was identified as Alfred Boyle of Vancouver. He was thrown about 60 feet from the car, which came to rest against a group through the guard rail.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE MEET

'We'll Take High Road'

PORT ALBERNI—Road committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island has chosen the most expensive of three possible Alberni-Courtenay road routes as the one which should be followed.

"It is the most costly, and is most likely to be shelved from year to year," said W. Wallace Bajkie, ACCVI president.

"However, I think we should recommend this route, because if one of the other less costly and more easily completed routes were temporarily adopted, it would mean the road might never be built on the right route."

The road suggested would follow the southeast side of Comox Lake, close to lake level. It would have good grades and could be kept open all winter, Mr. Bajkie said. For 40 years efforts have been made to build this road, he said.

Prior to this report a letter from Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi was read, in which it was stated further surveys in the area will be conducted this year.

Co-operation is needed in the field of tourist promotion in B.C. to compete with other adjacent areas, Ernest Evans, director of the B.C. Government Travel Bureau, told the convention.

"An area in California equal to that of Vancouver Island with Los Angeles as its centre has 457 state and national parks,
